Fine Young Americans,
Twelve Heavy Highbrows,
Seven Fisher Brothers,
Millikan Says No,

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 25.

MANY INTELLECTUAL "highbrows" came here to attend a dinner given to 104 young Americans from all over the United States.

All had competed for prizes offered by the seven Fisher brothers for the best examples of craftsmanship that the boys could show. Each was to make with his own hands an old-fashioned, elaborate coach, gilded, trimmed with velvet and gold braid, the sort that died out in Europe with the coming of the French Revolution.

The work of these boys was remarkable for its expert craftsmanship. The seven Fisher brothers, who know how to make coaches, agreed that it would be difficult to find an adult craftsman that could do better.

JUDGES AWARDING prizes were T. S. Baker, president of Carnegie Institute of Technology; M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Institute of Technology; M. E. Cooley, dean emeritus, College of Engineering and Architectural, University of Michigan; George J. Davis, Jr., dean, College of Engineering, University of Alabama; W. F. Durand, professor emeritus, mechanical engineering, Stanford University; E. A. Hitchcock, dean, College of Engineering, the Ohio State University; D. S. Kimball, dean, College of Engineering, Cornell University; P. R. Kolbe, president, Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn; R. A. Millikan, president, California Institute of Technology; R. L. Sackett, dean of engineering, Pennsylvania State College; the Rev. T. A. Steiner, C. S. C., dean, College of Engineering, University of Notre Dame; S. W. Stratton, president, Massachusetts Institute of Technology. These were all present at the dinner last night, and the air was heavy with thought and solemn wisdom.

SCIENTISTS PROVE that there is an electric current in the brain of a cat, strong enough to run a small radio.

The thing has been done. If you could harness the power in the 12 human brains, enumerated above, it would run full blast all the automobile factories in Michigan.

R. A. Millikan, of California, whose work on cosmic rays has made him famous all over the world, has gray eyes like those of an eagle, only more piercing. He said, "There is nothing surprising in the preservation of craftsmanship among American boys. Thousands of machine shops, garages, service stations, all over the country, and 25,000,000 automobiles, are teachings boys to use their hands."

PROF. MILLIKAN also said he doesn't believe that the power of the atom will ever be harnessed. The power is there, and Prof. Jeans' statement that the force holding together the electrons in three teaspoons of water would keep the biggest ocean steamship running for two years, is no exaggeration. But man never will release that power. But NEVER is a long word.

FOR SEVEN PERFECT pictures of health, cheerfulness and optimism in a depression, you must go to see the seven Fisher brothers. Unlike the little children in the "We Are Seven" poem, they are all alive, all working, and their success, far eclipsing anything in their line, came from a little blacksmith shop and wheelwright business. While they were working they were thinking, and reading newspapers intelligently.

Your chauffeur says "Charley Fisher can still shoe a horse without any trouble."

HENRY FORD, who in the public mind, is to Detroit what the Kaaba Stone is to Mecca, or the Grand Llama to Thibet, is out of town. Like everybody else, he regrets the depression, but thinks that if our artificial prosperity had lasted much longer, the results would have been far more serious than any results that can come from this unpleasant, but useful and necessary lesson.

NEAR DEARBORN, the driver shows you hundreds of acres of Ford potatoes and many acres of sunflowers, the latter in full bloom.

"Ford," says he, "is going to make rubber out of those sunflowers and if he says so, he will do it."

With rubber below 5 cents a pound that won't be profitable, but prices will change.

Senator Couzens' generous gift of $1,000,000 to help Detroit's unemployed is appreciated here as it should be. At prices quoted it can buy a good deal of gasoline, hamburger sausage and stew meat, and gasoline in our civilization is as important as "stew meat."

Henry Ford has just finished a handsome hotel, in early American style, at his airport. One of his three-engine planes is just hopping off to Chicago as you pass.

DETROIT DEALS wisely with radicals who multiply and flourish in times of depression.

"We don't club them as you do in New York," says a Detroiter. "We let them talk themselves tired."

That's wise, no boiler blows up while its safety valve is working. You could see 3,000 radicals gathered in Detroit's Grand Circus Park. One speaker can-

Resigns Cabinet Post After Pinchot Urges Support For County Commissioner

James F. Malone, secretary of the Bureau of Property and Supplies in Gov. Pinchot's cabinet, today resigned from that position rather than indorse County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, original Pinchot leader in Allegheny County, for re-election.

His letter to the Governor disclosed that Malone had refused Pinchot's request that he support McGovern.

It also indicated, through mention of an engagement broken by the Governor, that at least some feeling followed the refusal.

AIRS DIFFERENCES

In one place Malone wrote:

"I fully realize that you honestly believe that if I did not indorse McGovern that it would appear to the people of Allegheny County as though you were opposing his candidacy."

Malone's resignation, coming with startling suddenness, marks the culmination of a bitter fight with McGovern, which developed over state patronage and local politics after the two had been largely instrumental in making Pinchot Governor.

Informed of the resignation McGovern said:

"The conduct of Mr. Malone, his disloyalty to his friends of many years' standing—not to me—and the disapproval of his actions by the great mass of people has probably been more the cause of his resignation than anything else I can think of at this moment."

When McGovern's comment was read to Malone in Harrisburg, the latter replied:

"I certainly do not wish to comment on anything that gen-

Pinchot Seeks Information on Coal Curb Plan

Gov. Pinchot today evinced interest in the proposal of J. T. M. Stoneroad, president of the Carnegie Coal Company, that methods used in the Texas and Oklahoma oil fields be employed to stabilize the coal industry.

The Governor wired the Sun-Telegraph that he would be glad to have Stoneroad's full views. The latter expressed willingness to confer with the Governor.

Gov. George White, of Ohio, asked his opinion on the proposal of Stoneroad that the governors of Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania confer on using their police powers to aid the coal industry, suggested that such a conference be delayed until President Hoover had been given time to act.

Gov. Pinchot has constitutional authority to regulate the coal industry by use of police, it was declared today as leading Pittsburgh operators continued informal discussions of Stoneroad's suggestion.

The scope of police power Constitutional Law emphasizes, is as broad as the public welfare and is the broadest of any governmental activities.

MILITIA NOT NEEDED

Use of the police power of the state, some operators declared, does not necessarily mean the calling out of the National Guard to enforce any action which might be agreed upon in an emergency.

B. H. Canon of the Clinton Block Coal Company who was president of the Pittsburgh Coal Producers Association when it went out of business, in commenting on Stoneroad's suggestion, said:

"If we could get the Governors of Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio to take concerted action of some kind, for

SCORES HELD IN N. Y. WAR ON GANGS

Thousands Join in Rally to Crush Crime; Dry Law and Corrupt Officials Blamed

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—A campaign against New York gangsters and racketeers got under way today when police arrested more than 70 persons. The arrests were made after police officials ordered that all known criminals be taken into custody.

THOUSANDS JOIN DRIVE

Arrests of some of the big time gangsters were expected during the rest of the week. Federal investigators already are in New York checking up the finances of the racketeers in preparing to move against them for income tax law violations.

Public indignation over the slaying of innocent bystanders in recent street shootings here was voiced by more than 20,000 persons at an anti-gang rally last night in Madison Square Garden.

As 25,000 others listened outside the auditorium, and a radio audience of millions harked to the call, those within the hall adopted resolutions demanding:

Separation of politics from law enforcement bodies, that a free and untrammeled police department may cope with the menace of the underworld.

Establishment of a permanent committee of 70 to carry on to the finish of all racketeers the campaign started at the meeting, which was sponsored by the New York American.

The huge throng also adopted a resolution thanking William Randolph Hearst for his stirring editorial, published in the Hearst papers on August 2, which led to the meeting.

These 20,000 citizens—representatives of all that is solid and decent in the city—listened to speaker after speaker denounce the criminal element and plead for united action.

They heard Bainbridge Colby,

Operation Saves Infant as Woman's Life Ebbs After Tragedy in Braddock Home

Adam Zyma, 22, and his wife, Mary, 19, are dead, and the latter's mother, Mrs. Anna Milko, is in a serious condition in Braddock Hospital, following a shooting in the Milko Home in Talbot avenue, Braddock, this morning. Police said Zyma shot his wife and mother-in-law and then shot himself.

Just before she died, a Cesarean operation was performed on Mrs. Zyma by Drs. J. B. Smith and Fred Heupler and a daughter was born. Physicians said the child's chances of living are good.

BOTH PARENTS DIE

Within a few minutes after the birth, both mother and father died.

The shooting followed a series of quarrels, according to neighbors, who said Zyma was in non-support court. The Zymas were married in March and separated a few weeks later.

George T. Martin, of 1224 Pine way, who was passing in Talbot avenue at the time, said he saw Mrs. Milko topple into the yard. He and a number of boys were first to reach the side of the wounded.

TELLS OF SHOOTING

To County Detective John Burke, Mrs. Milko made this statement:

"My daughter and I were working in the kitchen when my son-in-law came in. He did not say a word to either of us. He just pulled a revolver and shot us. Then he shot himself."

LINDYS DELIGHT HOSTS, EAT FISH

NEMURO, Japan, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, resting here in preparation for the conclusion tomorrow of their flight to Tokio, found time today for sightseeing and gained friendship of the native inhabitants by expressing a liking for sashimi, or raw fish.

Sashimi was served Monday at a dinner given in their honor by Mayor Andos. It is eaten dipped in black soya bean sauce with plenty of finely grated horseradish.

In the morning Col. Lindbergh tuned up the plane's motor in preparation for the hop tomorrow to Tokio, while Mrs. Lindbergh took a three-mile automobile ride and visited the Ochiishi radio station at the invitation of Takeji Katahira, chief of the station.

TOKIO, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—In view of the fact there is more than one fortified area near the route which Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh will take in flying from Nemuro to Kasumigaura, near here, they will be supplied with a diagram showing a specified course to be followed. The course laid out by the Communications Department calls for an over water flight all the way.

Akron Maiden Flight Set for September 5

AKRON, O., Aug. 25.—(AP.)—The postponement of the maiden voyage of the giant Navy zeppelin Akron until September 5, or later was announced today by the Goodyear Zeppelin Corporation, its builders.

Minor repairs were necessary following a straining of a part of the ship during overload tests of the framework and it was found advisable to strengthen the structure at several points.

Radio Station Sues Ruth McCormick

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—An echo of Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick's radio speeches during her unsuccessful campaign last November for the United States Senate was heard when suit for $200 was filed against her by the German Radio Hour of Station WCFL, Chicago. The suit charged that she contracted to use $300 worth of time on the air, paid $100, and neglected to pay the rest.

Monte Blue Scalded; Will Escape Scars

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Physicians said today Monte Blue, film actor, would not be permanently scarred by scalds he received from automobile radiator steam Sunday.

Family Away as Blast Rocks McKeesport Neighborhood

McKeesport police were questioning Gabrille Amendola, his wife and son, Lawrence, 8, in connection with an explosion which wrecked their home at 301 West Sixth avenue, McKeesport, early today. Police believe the bombing may have been the result of a racketeer feud.

When taken into custody Amendola had a fire insurance policy for $2,000 issued to him on July 1, indicating, police believe, that he had a premonition of the bombing.

An investigation has been ordered by Fire Marshall Thomas Pfarr.

Neighbors, who told of being shaken from their beds by the blast, said flames followed the explosion. John Kasinecz, his wife and son, John, 9, living next door,

MOOSE NAMED IN DRY WRIT

A temporary prohibition injunction was granted against the Loyal Order of Moose, Lodge No. 46, occupying the six-story building at 634 Penn avenue, today by Federal Judge Nelson McVicar.

Affidavits charged that purchases of beer by federal agents led to a raid on August 19, in which 1,092 bottles of 4 per cent beer were seized.

Today's injunction does not close the building. It merely restrains the lodge and Frank Potochnik, the steward, from further violations.

POLICE QUIZZED IN MAN'S DEATH

With the death today of Rodokobisch, 60, of 2164 Strauss Lane, in Allegheny General Hospital, Coroner W. J. McGregor began an investigation to learn how the victim suffered a fractured skull.

According to a hospital report, the man had no serious injuries when taken to the hospital late Sunday night, by police, but when returned the following morning, he had a fractured skull.

The hospital in its report asked "how" and "where" these injuries were suffered.

Rodokobisch, according to the hospital report, when examined Sunday night was suffering only from alcoholism, and was returned to the custody of the police. At 6:20 a. m. Monday the man was returned in a state of coma.

A postmortem at the morgue this morning showed death was due to shock and hemorrhages resulting from an involved fracture of the skull.

Women Dry Decoys Banned By Enforcement Chief

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—(INS.)—Women today were divorced from the business of enforcing prohibition by order of Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock.

They will not be used as decoys, as escorts to agents seeking admission to night clubs, or in any capacity except clerks, he said. The new order went out to all regional offices today.

Woodcock's decision followed newspaper discussion of the use of pretty women escorts by agents in "baiting" night clubs and exclusive speakeasies in New York City and the vigorous defense of this practice by Maurice McCampbell, federal prohibition administrator for New York. Woodcock said:

"I have decided that women should have no place at all in enforcing prohibition. I think we can enforce the law without the use of women in any way."

Recently, after it was disclosed that young Ruth Callahan had been used as a "decoy" in Buffalo, Woodcock said this practice should be discontinued.

He also said that investigation would be made of charges of Representative Karch (Dem.), of Illinois, that dry agents had been making warrentless raids and using immoral women in the investigation. He said:

"If the charges are true they are very serious."

HOOVER NAMES OWEN D. YOUNG TO GIFFORD RELIEF BOARD

WELFARE UNITS ENLISTED IN CAMPAIGN

Appeal for Funds Will Be Made Simultaneously in Every Section of Country

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—(AP)—President Hoover today named five new members to the National Advisory Committee assisting Walter S. Gifford in coordinating relief, including Owen D. Young of New York.

The [illegible] Kansas City, Phoenix, Ariz., Buffalo, Columbus and James F. Bell, Minneapolis.

Gifford announced the committee would [illegible] clude representatives of every state.

Gifford was [illegible] day with public [illegible] campaign to [illegible] funds to [illegible] relief.

Representatives of [illegible] welfare [illegible] were present [illegible] he plan and [illegible] me for it.

The amount to be [illegible] not been [illegible] known, however, [illegible] past under way as soon as possible under that the [illegible] be on hand when winter arrives.

ASKED TO PARTICIPATE

Among those [illegible] were Allen T. B[illegible] the Community [illegible] Union B[illegible] ty Welfare Association of P[illegible] Officials, Miss B[illegible] National Tuberculosis A[illegible] Miss Justine C[illegible] Division of the Russe[illegible] sociation, and the H[illegible] ads of the National Welfare Conference.

Gifford said [illegible] these organizations [illegible] conduct [illegible] ter appeals for funds [illegible] simultaneously. He added:

"Such a period can then be recommended to all organizations over the country interested in raising monies for relief, in order that there may be a nation-wide appeal. It is not an appeal for a national fund, but for maximum local funds."

The relief director said no plans have been made for a national fund. Questioned about what would be done if localities failed to raise the necessary money, he said that problem would be considered when it arose.

JOBS HOPED FOR

His organization, Gifford said, was interested in finding jobs for unemployed. Realizing, however, he said, all of them could not be cared for in this way, the group would be devoted to making sure that local communities have relief funds.

The ultimate aim of the organization, he added, was to see that "every city and every state is free from acute suffering."

While he formulated his plans, Gifford was also perfecting his organization. Additions are to be named soon by President Hoover to the advisory committee appointed last week to assist him. Every state is to be represented in plans to draft volunteers to help him.

Gifford succeeded in getting the work under way within less than a week after the huge task was assigned him by President Hoover. He established headquarters in the Commerce Department Building and prepared to stay as long as necessary.

TAMMANY PLAN REJECTED

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 25 (AP)—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt in his message to the special session of the Legislature today bluntly rejected the demand of Tammany Hall that Democratic legislators be given an opportunity to attack alleged graft and corruption in Republican cities and counties.

As a result of the Governor's flat turndown of the demands made by the Democratic Legislature leaders the Capitol was convinced that an open break between the Governor and Tammany was close at hand.

In no way either directly or indirectly, did Gov. Roosevelt open the door for the Democrats to open fire on alleged wrongdoing in Republican communities.

Tammany Hall in its demand for an up-state legislative investigation of Republican cities hoped to balance the effect of the inquiry into the government of New York City, a Democratic stronghold by the Hofstadter Legislative Committee.

Malone's Letter of Resignation

Following is the letter of resignation sent by State Supplies Secretary James F. Malone to Gov. Pinchot today:

"I told you on Tuesday, the eighteenth, when you asked me to indorse McGovern, that I could not do so, because of many reasons, some of which you were very definitely aware of. Because I knew he was supposed to be a friend of yours, and further because I thought, for a time, that he might be the individual who might be instrumental in helping to bring about a better political condition in Allegheny County. I have earnestly and honestly done all I could to bring myself to the position of heartily indorsing and supporting him for Commissioner. I sat in by invitation, at conferences with McGovern and other gentlemen on several occasions, for the purpose of discussing this matter, and much of what went on at the conferences was given out in an indirect way, apparently for the purpose of making him the one outstanding immaculate gentleman, and casting inunendoes on others. I have heard him criticize other public officials for doing certain things, and then do similar things to a greater extent himself. I was asked at some of the conferences by him and others present to do certain things and interview certain people and after these matters and interviews had been taken care of in an apparently satisfactory way to all concerned, I found that they were being secretly upset for the purpose of making McGovern stand out as the only absolute honest, independent citizen. There was positively no chance to work out arrangements, as he would not agree. You and I, and others connected with the administration, have been able to co-operate with each other. McGovern, in my opinion, absolutely lacks any degree of co-operation on any subject unless he positively dominates the persons and the situation.

"I could not, under any circumstances, even if I knew he were to be elected unanimously, indorse his candidacy, because I do not believe that he would agree with his colleagues in office for a month, even though he were elected on the same ticket with them."

WON'T BE DRIVEN

"He has not hesitated to infer to many people in Pittsburgh that he would 'drive me into line' for him because of the position I hold under you.

"This is an extremely sad and serious situation when it involves men in public office.

"The office of Director of the Department of Property and Supplies, to which you appointed me, and in which appointment the Senate concurred, is a high and honorable office, with great responsibilities, and to have a man who is supposed to be your friend talk as McGovern has talked, involves a very serious principle.

"No matter how high the office, or how great the honor, I have never sacrificed principle for expediency.

"I had a great deal of pleasure and joy working with you during the campaign of 1930, and it has been a happy connection to have been associated with you in working out the departmental matters at Harrisburg. You have been so gracious in your assistance of my management of the Department of Property and Supplies; in fact, you were an inspiration to make any fellow work hard and endeavor to have a successful administration, and I am sure a lot of the success that has come to the department over which you put me in charge is due to your co-operation, congenial disposition and desire to render a real public service. If McGovern had one-half of 1 per cent of the kind of disposition and desire for service that you have, I could be for him to the fullest extent of my ability, and be happy in doing so.

"You have honored me greatly by placing me in your cabinet, and I fully realize that you honestly believe that if I did not indorse McGovern, that it would appear to the people of Allegheny County as though you were opposing his candidacy. Hence, I can appreciate your earnest desire to have me indorse him, and failure on my part to do so might embarrass you; and further than that, though you may overlook my refusal to indorse him, and desire me to continue on with you, I am fearful that the extreme pleasant relations that have existed between us may not continue. Hence it would be better that I retire immediately, and I tender to you this as my resignation as Secretary of the Department of Property and Supplies.

"I want you to know that it is with a great deal of regret, personally, that I do this, but I could not, under any circumstances, feel satisfied with my actions if I did anything else.

"Much knowledge and valuable information has come to me during the past few months while working with you. Some of this may be of benefit to you in working out departmental matters. If at any time you believe that I have any knowledge that might be of benefit to you or to the state, I want you to call upon me, and you may be sure that I shall respond."

Quebec Government Wins for 34th Year

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 25 (INS)—The Quebec Liberal government continued in power today after being upheld in one of the bitterest provincial election fights in history.

While the Liberals were recording 79 votes and the Conservatives 11, more than 500 were arrested throughout the province and 100 injured in election arguments. The Quebec government is now the oldest in power, having been upheld 34 years in succession.

SCORES PERILED AS BULL, STEER RUN WILD

Policeman Gored in Railroad Tunnel; One Charges Into Train Shed; Train Delayed

A bull and a steer last night and early today broke from their herds, scattered women and children, destroyed hundreds of dollars worth of property and gave the Police Department one of the most hectic nights in months. The animals however, paid for their folly with their lives. One, terrified by the noise of pursuers who tried to rope it, gored a policeman who cornered it in the Fourth avenue tunnel of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

A score of city and railroad police took part in the chase of the bull which broke away from a Dunlevy Packing Company herd while being driven across the Thirtieth Street Bridge about 1 a. m. today. Four hours later it was cornered in the East End and shot to death.

RACES THROUGH STATION

Patrolmen Leo Walsh, Redmond McDonnough, John Hutchinson and William Hollman took up the chase when the animal left the herd and raced down Liberty avenue to Twenty-eighth street, where it turned to the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks and headed toward the downtown district.

Passengers and employes in the shed of Pennsylvania Station were thrown into confusion a short time later when the infuriated bull turned up on the Liberty avenue side of the train shed and dashed across the platform to the Pathfinder tracks and headed toward the Fourth avenue tunnel. Twenty yards inside it was cornered by the four patrolmen who had followed in motor cars, and railroad police.

LIMITED HELD UP

When Patrolman Walsh tried to rope it, the bull gored him and sprawled him against the wall of the tunnel. Walsh fired two bullets into its body and the bull turned and started out of the tunnel toward the Pennsylvania Station.

Meanwhile the Cincinnati Limited, ready to begin its trip to the West, was held up in the station, officials fearing to permit passengers onto the platform while the bull was in the vicinity.

Tearing back past the station the bull vanished in the maze of tracks and lights. It was next heard from at Shadyside station, then it backtracked to the Bloomfield Bridge, where it again changed its mind and started east.

At Aiken avenue the emergency car from East End Station, manned by Patrolmen Edward Sweeney, John O'Connor and Louis Sprague, took up the chase and after a wild race through that section of town during which the bull tore up lawns, broke down fences and terrified early morning workers, they cornered the animal at Baum boulevard and Amber street, where it was shot to death shortly after 5 a. m.

STEER RUNS WILD

A bullet ended the wild chase of a steer a short time after its escape from the Eckert Brothers packing house, at 3101 East street, last night.

Its walkaway through an open gate from a number of other steers in the plant was a calm one until employes, armed with a rifle, started in pursuit. As the animal raced up Milroy street men, women and children scurried to safety. The steer ran throughout the Perrysville avenue district for half an hour before it was cornered in a yard in Marshall avenue, near Perrysville avenue. A bullet fired from an employe's rifle pierced the steer's heart.

tleman may have to say about me."

SCORES M'GOVERN

Malone, in the letter which told Pinchot of his resignation, wrote of McGovern:

"I could not under any circumstances, even if I knew he were to be elected unanimously, indorse his candidacy, because I do not believe that he would agree with his colleagues in office for a month, even though he were elected on the same ticket with them.

"He has not hesitated to infer to many people in Pittsburgh that he would 'drive me into line' for him because of the position I hold under you.

"If McGovern had one-half of one per cent of the kind of disposition and desire for service that you have, I could be for him for the fullest extent of my ability and be happy in doing so."

GOVERNOR 'REGRETS'

Gov. Pinchot, speaking from Harrisburg at noon, said:

"I regret Secretary Malone's resignation exceedingly. He has done admirable work in the Department of Property and Supplies and his absence from that department will be keenly felt.

"Walter G. Scott, deputy secretary, will be acting secretary until further orders."

Malone, also in Harrisburg, said, when asked if he intended to retire from politics:

"No live man can retire."

"Will you take an active part in the Commissioner campaign and whom will you support?"

"I haven't anything further to say about that. My reply to your first question is my answer."

AIDED PINCHOT

He and McGovern, more than any others, were credited with bringing about Pinchot's victory through a surprisingly strong fight in Allegheny County.

Then came a breach over minor political appointments climaxing, it was said, when Athletic Commissioner Havey J. Boyle was ousted in favor of Dr. W. D. McClelland, a Malone follower.

With this breach already yawning between the pair, plans for the "Independent" campaign in the city-county fall election started.

BOLTED SMITH

McGovern, heading the ticket with his candidacy for re-election, backed Ralph H. Smith, State Deputy Attorney General and a political associate of Malone, for the District Attorney candidacy.

Malone, after weeks of conferences with McGovern and others of the "Independents," suddenly announced his support of Andrew T. Park, "Organization" candidate for the office Smith seeks.

At that time, Malone said he had been informed that if he indorsed Park the latter would have no opposition.

This was not the case, however, as Smith, backed by McGovern, announced his candidacy a few days later.

By OTTO D. TOLISCHUS
International News Service.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—A national cabinet of co-operation, embracing the three leading political parties in Great Britain, was formed by Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald this afternoon to succeed the Laborite ministry that resigned yesterday because of its inability to cope with the economic crisis.

Chancellor of the Exchequer, Philip Snowden, Laborite.

President of the Council, Stanley Baldwin, Conservative.

Chancellor, Lord Sankey, Laborite.

SMALLER CABINET

The cabinet contains only 10 names, as against the 21 who served in the late Labor ministry. Conservatives and Laborites have four representatives each and the Liberals two.

In addition a number of statesmen from each party were appointed to cabinet posts without portfolio. These appointments were as follows:

Minister of Education, Sir Donald Maclean, Liberal.

BANK ULTIMATUM'

The Herald had said:

"Last night it was announced that the Federal Reserve Bank of New York had prepared t extend further large credits t the Bank of England.

"Behind that news lies t amazing fact that the late go ernment was informed by t Federal Reserve that such cr its would only be granted p vided specific and consider economies were at once mad the administration or in a benefits paid under the u ployment insurance schem

"This virtual ultimatun New York bankers played a tal part in dividing the la cabinet on the issue of a 10-per cent reduction in unemployment benefits.

CLASH HEIGHTENED

"Insistence by the Bank of England that it had no need of credits—even on these terms—heightened the existing clash within the cabinet. It has been made absolutely clear that credit will not be forthcoming unless and until measures which United States bankers consider satisfactory are put into operation by the new cabinet."

Cavanaugh, Schad Battle Perils Armstrong Rally

A statement by John J. Cavanaugh, burgess of Homestead and a member of the County Board of Revision and Assessment of Taxes that State Senator William D. Mansfield would be County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong's running mate in the primary election, nearly broke up a patrolmen's meeting in Armstrong's Homestead headquarters last night.

George J. Schad, chairman of the tax board, jeaped to his feet as he shouted:

"Who authorized you to make that statement?"

Cavanaugh answered:

"Keep still or you will be thrown out."

Schad replied:

"You can't throw me out and if you don't behave you will be thrown out yourself.

"I'm for Armstrong and whoever runs with him but Cavanaugh had no right to speak as he did."

Schad shouted:

"I am not a cheat."

Shaw Blames England's Crisis on Bankers

LONDON, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—George Bernard Shaw, suggesting remedies for the financial crisis, said today Great Britain must give up hope of restoring her one-time prosperous foreign trade and concentrate on her home market. He declared:

"It looks for the moment as if the crisis were brought about by bankers. They are still looking forward to the impossible restoration of our old trade relations with foreigners. We should abandon all hope of a recovery of our old foreign trade and make up our minds to consume and produce at home and to cease imagining we are ruined when exports and imports fall off."

Asked if the turn of events had surprised him, Shaw replied emphatically:

"It can not surprise any Socialist who understands. The capitalist system is breaking down. It's been doing so for 50 years and it's getting into a very rickety condition. One doesn't know from one hour to another what the next breakdown will be."

FATHER, NOVICE PILOT, KIDNAPS 2 SONS IN STOLEN PLANE

LONE PINE, Cal., Aug. 25.—A father who stole an airplane and used his limited knowledge of piloting to fly away with his two small children whom he had forcibly taken from his estranged wife was believed to be hiding in the Inyo Mountains today after effecting a safe landing in a dry lake bed.

The father, Henry Billingsley, 40, a painter of Bishop, Cal., left two notes in the abandoned airplane demanding immunity from prosecution and that his wife agree to return to him. The notes were found last night after the plane was recovered, virtually undamaged in the lake bed, four miles from here. It was flown back to Bishop by one of its owners.

STEALS PLANE AT FIELD

Billingsley obtained possession of the plane at Bishop yesterday by taking the children, Henry, 5, and Jean, 8, to the airport there for a ride.

A pilot began to warm up the ship, a large monoplane. As the flier stepped out for a moment, Billingsley snapped the door shut, jumped to the controls and raced away while the pilot who was to have taken him aloft stood nearby.

Previously he had called at the home of his estranged wife and removed the boys, calling back that he intended to take them up in an airplane and "kill everybody."

Fliers at Bishop said Billingsley had handled the controls of a plane only twice before and never had flown alone.

BELIEVED DERANGED

Police officers said automobile tracks leading away from the scene of the landing showed how Billingsley escaped. Sheriff Tom Hutchinson expressed the belief that Billingsley was met by an accomplice and that they took the children to a deserted cabin in the Inyo foothills.

Others believed he might now be hiding in Los Angeles. Authorities at Darwin, 40 miles east, in Death Valley, were ordered to stop him if he tried to pass the last outpost at the desert's edge.

The abductor's actions and his notes led the sheriff to express the belief he was deranged.

NOTE DEMANDS IMMUNITY

One of the notes was in the form of a waiver to be signed by the District Attorney granting Billingsley immunity from prosecution. The other was an agreement to be signed by Mrs. Billingsley pledging herself to return to Billingsley to gain safe return of the children.

Billingsley specified that the notes, when signed, be dropped from an airplane at a designated spot in the dry lake near where he landed and escaped.

He is sought on charges of kidnaping, stealing an airplane, and disobeying a court order restraining him from molesting the children.

Mrs. Billingsley had been given custody of the children at the time of their divorce. Once before, the husband took the children from their mother and went to Reno, but he was persuaded to return them.

CAPONE FIGHTS TO FREE BOOKIE

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—(INS.)—Al Capone today turned all his underworld power upon the kidnapers of John J. (Jack) Lynch in an effort to secure the safe return of the sportsman and turfman to his distraught family.

Friends of the abducted gambler, unable to satisfy demands for $250,000 ransom, had asked help from Capone through his lieutenant, Jack Guzik. Police, holding a theory that Capone interests were behind the kidnaping, were skeptical of the move.

Capone's surprising reply was a bitter condemnation of kidnapers in general and a promise to do all within his power to help save Lynch.

Capone said:

"I am doing everyting in my power to find Lync and return im to is family. Everybody I know or can tink of as been sent a request to work wit me.

"I am against te kidnaping racket and always ave been. No one but a rat would go into that racket. I consider kidnapers lower than pickpockets and dope peddlers, and you can't get much lower than that."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—(INS.)—President Hoover has signed a proclamation shortening the season for duck shooting this fall and winter, it was announced today.

CANNON HINTS PERSONAL FEUD

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Bishop James Cannon, Jr., charged in a cable today from London that the Senate's inquiry into his 1928 anti-Smith campaign activities was a "purely personal attack by a vindicative Virginia Democrat and a Boston congressman under Roman Catholic domination," and not an attempt to frame remedial legislation.

The message was sent to the Senate Campaign Funds Committee as it prepared to resume its inquiry into the Southern Methodist churchman's use of $65,000 in Virginia in 1928 against Alfred E. Smith.

Bishop Cannon's charges referred to Senator Glass (Dem.), Virginia, under whose resolution the committee is working, and Representative Tinkham (Rep.), Massachusetts, who has complained that the Bishop violated the corrupt practices act in failing to report all his expenditures.

RANSOM MONEY UNCLAIMED

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—A race has developed between relatives of Charles M. Rosenthal, missing 24-year-old broker, who are eager to pay the $100,000 ransom sought by his kidnapers, and police, who hoped to locate him before his captors could collect.

Although sufficient money to meet the kidnapers' demands was kept under guard in the broker's Broadway office and a man stationed there night and day to negotiate for Rosenthal's release, the ransom plans went awry yesterday.

The failure of anyone to call for the money led police to believe the men who spirited the broker away from his Long Island home 13 days ago feared capture and had abandoned their attempt to "cash in."

800 Convicts Strike For Raise in Pay

RAHWAY, N. J., Aug. 25.—(INS.)—More than 800 convicts were on strike at the New Jersey State Reformatory here today, seeking higher wages. Seventy-five "strikebreakers" were called in to milk the prison cows and attend the crops.

The convicts receive three cents a day and protested that some other state convicts, including those at the state prison at Trenton, were paid from 5 to 20 cents a day.

MELLON BACK ON JOB, FACES BIG TASK

Mounting U. S. Deficit and British Financial Crisis Problems for Secretary

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon returned to his desk today to face the problem of a growing Treasury deficit as well as the difficult questions of international finance pressing for solution.

As the Treasury had resumed his duties he was suffering from a bad cold contracted during his voyage home from Europe.

One of the first questions expected to concern the Secretary, as ex-officio chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, was the situation in Great Britain, where financial aid appears necessary to carry the government through the present crisis.

Further credits may be extended to Great Britain through the New York Federal Reserve Bank, it was indicated. A recent credit of $250,000,000 advanced by the Bank of France and the Federal Reserve Bank of New York is about exhausted, according to London reports.

The daily Treasury figures which greeted the Secretary were anything but cheering. With a deficit of $903,000,000 recorded in the fiscal year ending June 30, an even greater deficit is possible in the present fiscal year.

While the Treasury has indicated that a revision of taxes upward is inevitable, it is held unlikely any increase will be proposed during the coming session of Congress.

Instead, it is expected, a huge bond issue will be floated this fall to take up short-term notes and provide the necessary cash to carry the government until next July 1.

LOUISE THADEN FOURTH AT TUCSON

Complex Handicap System Confuses Timers; No One Knows Who Leads in Race

By LOUISE THADEN
Winner of the 1929 National Air Derby for Women, and Pittsburgh's Representative in the 1931 Cross-Country Derby.

TUCSON, Ariz., Aug. 25.—The women still were showing the way in the cross-country race when the planes began taking off here this morning for Douglas, Ariz., and El Paso, Tex., where we shall spend the night.

The trip from Calexico yesterday was a terribly hot one. I've seen dirty pilots before, but never so many so dirty. You can imagine 60-odd airplanes landing and taking off almost together on these dusty desert fields. We have had marvelous care at all stops, but most of us have been turning in early.

TWO FORCED DOWN

Two ships were forced down on the way from Phoenix, one of them piloted by Mary Charles. She is safe. The ship was not damaged, although with this handicapping business she is out of the race.

Another one out is Winifred Spooner, the English woman pilot, whose oil pressure went down between Calexico and Phoenix, and who landed with a stuck cylinder at Phoenix.

I feel much better about my motor. We have gotten the oil temperature to stay down by rigging up a blower, and it ran within the range of safety. I flew right on the ground from Phoenix over, playing hide-and-go-seek with the cactus as we had a head wind. The timers are having a difficult time figuring what's it's all about.

NOBODY KNOWS STANDING

Nobody knows yet where they stand, in fact, nobody seems to know anything. I believe I stand fourth.

I've had the throttle bent wide since we left Santa Monica, and expect to keep it there until we land at Cleveland. Several people who have lived in Pittsburgh have come up at different places, and I am always announced as "the girl who came clean from Pittsburgh."

O'DONNELL FIRST IN

Although the way we finish means little, this is the order in which we dropped down on the Tucson airport. Mrs. Gladys O'Donnell, Long Beach, Cal.; Phoebe Omlie, of Memphis; Clema Granger, of Santa Monica; myself, and Florence Lowe Barnes, of San Marino, Cal.

There was a bit of excitement here when members of a railroad crew yesterday reported seeing an airplane fall 20 miles from Buckeye, Ariz. Identity of the plane was a mystery, since all derby entrants and air transport planes were accounted for last night. Searchers endeavored to locate the wreckage today.

(Mrs. Thaden is writing exclusively for the Sun-Telegraph of her air experiences in this year's races.)

POUNDING ICE DELAYS SUB

OSLO, Aug. 25.—(INS.)—Further mechanical trouble has delayed the first perilous dive of the submarine Nautilus under the Arctic ice pack, according to messages from Sir Hubert Wilkins picked up today by Norwegian radio stations. The vessel's helm and tanks were damaged today, presumably by the pounding of ice floes.

The Nautilus reported her position as at the edge of the ice pack north of Spitzbergen. Yesterday the chief of the submarine polar expedition wirelessed that his craft's diving rudder and electrical apparatus had been damaged.

German Fliers Set For Hop Over Sea

LISBON, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Missing since Saturday on a flight from Berlin, Willy Rody and Christian Johannsen were here today in readiness to attempt a nonstop dash across the Atlantic to New York.

The German airmen dropped out of the fog at Amadora Military Airdrome yesterday afternoon after a short hop from Madrid. They had made previous stops at Lyons and Marseilles, but their progress had not been generally known.

Japanese Declines To Aid Fliers' Fund

BALTIMORE, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—The Japanese ambassador at Washington, Katsuji Debuchi, "is not in a position to participate" in the plan of Theodore R. Mr. McKeldin's check to start the fund was returned.

M'GOVERN RAPS BIDDING LAW EVASION

Favored Contractors Given Large Share of Work on Technicalities, He Says

County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, addressing the noon meeting of the "Independent" Republican ticket, on which he is a candidate for re-election, told his listeners in the Fourth avenue headquarters today that for the past eight years the majority County Commissioners have shattered the letter and spirit of the competitive bidding law. He said:

"A survey of the awards will show that favored contractors were apportioned large shares of the work and that the apportionment was made on a political basis rather than on the basis of economy.

"In many cases despite the fact that the low bidders were responsible contractors and had been accepted as such by the county awards were made to contractors with higher bids."

FLIMSY REASONS

McGovern charged that flimsy technical recommendations of county engineers were used by the majority Commissioners in shifting contract awards to the higher bidders.

Mrs. Henry Chalfant Miller and Councilman Robert Garland also spoke.

Joseph N. Mackrell, seeking re-election as Register of Wills on the Independent slate, and Dr. P. C. Ferrante, of Coraopolis, spoke in the East End Independent Republican headquarters, 5801 Penn avenue, last night.

BROOKLINE MEETING

County Commissioner McGovern, Deputy Attorney General Ralph H. Smith, candidate for District Attorney, and a number of running mates spoke in the Nineteenth Ward last night at a meeting in Brookline School under auspices of the Jacob Yeager-for-Alderman Committee.

At the Brookline meeting, Attorney Smith said:

"District Attorney Andrew T. Park is on the defensive explaining the wonderful results in law enforcement he obtains with the small force of 50 county detectives. I maintain that the important fact that he ignores is the inefficiency of that staff. His last appointee was a former restaurant cashier, with no police experience."

OTHER SPEAKERS

Other speakers were Council Charles Anderson, seeking re-election; Maj. William T. Rees, candidate for County Controller; Henry Tranter, for County Treasurer; James O. Cornett, for Recorder of Deeds; Councilman Robert Garland, incumbent, former Councilman P. J. McArdle and Council candidate James D. Houston; candidates for Common Pleas Court judges Alexander P. Lindsay, Thomas M. Marshall, William M. Ewing and Thomas L. Kane; candidates for County Court Judge Sara M. Soffel, incumbent; N. L. (Skip) Wymard, Clarence B. Nixon and Benjamin Lentner, and Jacob Yeager and J. A. Heath, candidates for Alderman and Constable of the Nineteenth Ward. Deputy Attorney General Ralph H. Frank presided.

FOES OF BRYAN WIN VOTE JOBS

McKees Rocks Independents won a majority of new election officers in their contest against the Miles I. Bryan faction, when Judge James H. Gray, in Quarter Sessions Court, appointed the Independent candidate, Henry Polanski, 522 Helen street, to be majority inspector of the Second District of the Second Ward. He takes the place of Victor Janack, borough employe, who was ousted along with seven others including policemen and firemen, on election boards because it was held unconstitutional for public employes to serve.

Judge Gray previously had appointed three Bryan faction men, three Independents and one man indorsed by both factions.

Judge, Twelfth District, Eleventh Ward, Robert Wentz, vice F. Page, moved; judge, Thirty-first District, Fourteenth Ward, Hyman Liptzig, vice I. E. Kraus, resigned; judge, Third District, Fourteenth Ward, E. R. Lawrence, vice Harry Silverman, moved; judge, Seventh District, Twenty-seventh Ward, R. B. Connors, vice Gustave Panier, resigned; judge, Fourth District, First Ward, Duquesne, J. P. Rush, vice W. E. Meyer, resigned.

Judge Candidate Urges All to Vote

A plea to voters of Allegheny County to exercise their rights at the polls Tuesday, September 15, was made by Attorney Frank F. Canuti, candidate for judge of Common Pleas Court, in a broadcast yesterday over WJAS. He urged:

"That voters pay tribute to the founders of the United States by declaring independence from all elements of selfishness and sordidness that lead to indifference."

$4,000,000 LEFT BY JAPANESE

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Another theory concerning the disappearance of Hisashi Fujimara from the liner Belgenland as it returned from a Halifax cruise evaporated today when it was determined the importer was worth about $4,000,000.

Previously some investigators had leaned to the theory the Japanese might have committed suicide because of financial reverses. This supposition was strengthened when it was learned his personal bank account had shrunk more than $300,000 since his meeting some months earlier with Mary Von Reusler, former show girl, for whom he furnished town and country homes, an automobile and jewels.

A business associate revealed the extent of Fujimara's wealth today stating the $500.00 would have meant little to him.

KLINE PREPARES TO PUSH DRIVE FOR COYNE

Mayor Will Call Series of Ward Meetings, Summons Chairmen for Conference

By MARK SHIELDS

Mayor Kline this week will inaugurate a series of ward meetings at which he will personally push the campaign of Senator James J. Coyne as a Republican candidate for County Commissioner.

As an initial step the Mayor already has summoned to his office a number of ward chairmen. The Mayor is demanding support for a slate consisting of Sheriff Robert S. Cain for County Treasurer; District Attorney Andrew T. Park, James P. Rooney, John M. Phillips, Robert J. Alderdice and William J. Soost for City Council; E. D. Freibertshausen for Register of Wills and the remaining county officers seeking re-election.

The Mayor will ask support for no candidate for Commissioner except Coyne.

WARD CHAIRMAN TO ACT

The meetings, according to present plans, will be called by ward chairmen and the Mayor and the candidates on his slate will address the gatherings of ward workers. The battle, especially that for Council, will be pictured as a fight for vindication by the Mayor.

In some wards where County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong through the influence of the county payroll has a following it will prove impossible for the Mayor to turn a 100 per cent organization vote against Armstrong for Commissioner, even should he wish to.

In such wards the Mayor will make little effort to disrupt Coyne-Armstrong tickets so far as the head of the slate is concerned, but he will insist that there be complete backing for the Kline councilmanic candidates, even should Armstrong decide to support some of the men entered by the Independents, led by County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern.

Even recent move of Armstrong indicates a growing coldness toward Kline, and an intention to make a fight all along the line on the Mayor's candidates, especially Coyne. This the Mayor is preparing to meet through the ward meetings.

LESLIE AID POSSIBLE

In spite of the ill feeling between Armstrong and former Senator M. G. Leslie, which had its bitterest manifestation in a wordy battle between the two last winter, Armstrong is being assisted materially by Leslie aides and is drawing many of them into his fold. It is understood that the Commissioner and the former Senator were in conference last week.

The appointment of Mrs. A. G. H. Frazier as vice chairman of the Armstrong campaign committee is a direct thrust at Kline, who forced her from the vice chairmanship of the Republican County Committee in 1929. Mrs. Frazier has been allied in politics with Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell, for whom Coyne has an intense dislike.

Nine Days Remain For Voters to Qualify

A warning that only nine days remain for persons not already assessed to qualify themselves to vote in the coming primary was issued last night by J. Denny O'Neil, Republican candidate for County Treasurer.

O'Neil is an employe of the County Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes and pointed the procedure for being assessed and registered as voting requisites.

Wall Borough Group Backs Musmanno

Attorney M. A. Musmanno has been indorsed as a candidate for judge of County Court by the American Citizens Association of Wall Borough. He is scheduled to address the association at a picnic next Sunday at Moreside boulevard.

Musmanno was indorsed yesterday by the West Deer Township Republican organization and by all the shop crafts of Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Federation No. 10.

PICNIC TO HEAR CANDIDATES

Frank A. Piekarski, candidate for judge of Common Pleas Court, was scheduled to preside at Polish Day exercises today at Kennywood Park and will introduce to the audience his rivals for the Common Pleas Court nomination and candidates for other offices.

Col. Francis Fronczak, of Buffalo, N. Y., was expected to make the principal address. He was the personal representative of President Hoover at the unveiling of the Wilson statue at Poznan, Poland, and also at the International Military Medical Conference at The Hague.

Piekarski is due to speak tomorrow night at meetings in Dixon High School, Swissvale, and at the Italian Hall, Sharpsburg. Last night he spoke to about 2,000 persons at a meeting of the Ross Township Political Workers Committee at Turner's Park.

Russian Attorney Supports Wymard

Attorney N. L. (Skip) Wymard was indorsed as a candidate for judge of County Court in a statement issued today by Michael W. Huron, prominent Russian attorney and a leader in the activities of residents of Russian ancestry, Huron declared:

"I have known Mr. Wymard for a number of years and always found him to be fair, honest and reliable. I believe his election to the County Court bench will be a step in the legal and social advancement of Allegheny County."

Mexicans Arrest Two Catholic Priests

GUADALAJARA, Mex., Aug. 25 (AP).—Two Catholic priests were detained here today after police and firemen dispersed a mob which formed in front of Pilar Church and attempted to stage a religious demonstration.

Firemen turned their hose on the crowd, and the priests, Fathers Jose Figueroa Luna and Jose Maria Uribe, were held pending an investigation.

RAP 'OLD LINE' REGISTRARS

Registration Commissioners were resigned today to listen to the protests of scores of "Independent" political leaders whose recommendations for the appointment of registrars to sit at many of the 406 polling places of the city had been ignored.

The avalanche of complaints began to pour in yesterday and was not unexpected by those who knew that the Commissioners had to select 1,600 appointees from more than 7,000 applicants.

The situation this year was made acute through the unemployment crisis because in former years, the Commissioners had to beg people to act as registrars at $10 a day for the three registration days.

The burden of the complaints heard yesterday was to the effect that "old line" leaders of the Regular Republican organization had received major consideration.

The North Side and East End wards had the most objectors yesterday.

SLATE LAUDED BY M'NAUGHER

Judge William H. McNaugher, candidate to succeed himself on the Common Pleas bench, spoke at a citizens' meeting in Brentwood last night, claiming that he and his six running mates were as independent as their rivals and branding the latters' attacks on the seven sitting judges as "loose, dangerous campaign talk." Judge McNaugher said:

"The word 'independent' so freely used by some people to cloak a candidacy, is a much abused and strained word. If by independent they mean a man whose conscience is clear and whose judgments are made from the honest, unswayed, free dictates of that conscience, then I am as independent as any and so are Judges Gardner, Reid, Dithrich, Snee, Egan and Stadtfeld.

"Were it not so, we would now be forced to answer for instances where our decisions were dictated or subject to influence outside justice and law."

STONER BOOSTS LINDSAY

Attorney W. W. Stoner, chairman of the lawyers' committee working for the nomination of Attorney Alexander P. Lindsay as Judge of Common Pleas Court, issued a statement today calling attention to Lindsay's freedom from political domination. He said:

"It is because of the entire independence of any political party, faction or person and of his admitted qualifications for the office otherwise, that we urge the people to elect Alexander P. Lindsay judge of Common Pleas Court.

"He is a good lawyer of ample experience and the right age. He is scrupulously honest and he is fearless. He will do his duty in any sphere of life where he is called to act."

The widow of Judge Richard W. Martin has consented to have her name added to the list of prominent women supporting Lindsay's candidacy.

Martin Kin Urges Reich for Judge

John J. O'Connor, uncle of the late Judge Richard W. Martin, urged the nomination of Attorney Joseph H. Reich for judge of Common Pleas Court in a broadcast last night over Station WWSW. He said:

"I have known Joseph H. Reich for a number of years. I know him to be a man of sterling character, with a clean mind and a judicial temperament. Having been very close to my nephew during his lifetime, I can assure my friends and the followers of the late Judge Martin that he held Joseph H. Reich in high esteem."

AIMS OUTLINED BY HAGGERTY

Assistant District Attorney John F. Haggerty, candidate for Judge of Common Pleas Court, today issued a statement explaining that his aspirations to be elevated to the bench was the common ambition shared by many lawyers as the crowning achievement of a legal career. He declared:

"To attain that honor, an attorney must be well versed in the law, have mature experience, a reputation for integrity, ability and impartiality at all times.

"I have desired to win this high honor as a climax to my years in the legal profession, feeling that my experience in private practice and as an assistant district attorney has given me a thorough training for this honorable post as well as an appreciation of the tremendous responsibilities of the office."

Webster Pioneer Advocate of Simple Words

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Devotees of simplified spelling may be interested in knowing that Noah Webster was a pioneer advocate of simple spelling.

In a book written by M. M. Matthews, published yesterday by the University of Chicago Press, it was revealed that back in 1806 when Webster got out his first dictionary he urged simpler usage. He pleaded for such spellings as "ake," "fether" and "lether" and wrote sarcastically that the only reason complicated forms were used was because:

"We must not deviate from the practice of our grandfathers, even when they erred."

DUFF ASSAILS COURT DELAYS

Attorney J. Boyd Duff, candidate for Judge of Common Pleas Court, today issued a statement concerning his plan to relieve the congestion of the courts. He declared:

"The plan is nothing more than the modern American straight line formula applied to judicial administration. In this county no effort has been made before this proposal to apply that formula to the production of fully heard, decided law cases.

"Those who studied the plan readily can see that by it, our civil courts could do in six months what now takes one year to accomplish. It is easily seen that nothing but long-continued under-capacity of the methods used for years has produced the present congestion."

NEGLEY SCORES SITTING JUDGES

Attorney Harry H. Negley, candidate for Judge of Common Pleas Court, charged today that the seven sitting Judges seeking to succeed themselves are, through friends, conducting a "whispering campaign" by implying that the other 18 candidates for Judge would have accepted the Governor's appointment had one been offered. Negley declared:

"The six appointed Judges appeared to be the only candidates to whom the political leaders owed the appointment and were the ones who had established such friendly relations with the political powers as to demand their reward. Is it not dangerous to the public welfare to have such a close community of interest between gang and bench?"

Fort Pitt Garrison Indorses Foster

Judge D. Paulson Foster, of County Court, has been indorsed for re-election by Fort Pitt Garrison No. 91, Army and Navy Union, U. S. A., according to a letter addressed to Judge Foster by J. B. Sanders, adjutant of the garrison.

the benefit of the industry it would result in good. No one of the three states could do it alone."

J. H. Santom, president of the Chartiers Creek Coal Company, said:

"If we could get results by restricting production and at the same time obtain a minimum price that would give a just profit to the operator and an adequate wage to the miner, it would be the salvation of the industry."

Some operators here believe Kentucky should be included in any conference. That a large tonnage produced there is felt by some as affecting production and unemployment in Pennsylvania and the tri-states area particularly at this time.

POWERS OUTLINED

Regarding the police powers of the state, Corpus Juris Law Vol. 12, page 980, section 416 says in part:

"It has been said that the police power is not a fixed quantity and it changes from time to time to meet changed conditions of society. It is more accurate to say, however, that the power itself remains the same and that its apparent extension is only the application of the principle on which it is based to new conditions as they arise.

"The police power extends to the lives, health, comfort and quiet of all persons and the protection of all property within the state.

Auto Accidents In July Cause 18 Deaths

There were 130 traffic accidents reported by police in July, 8 less than in June, but 30 more than in July, 1930, statistics of the City Bureau of Traffic Planning disclose.

There were 110 injuries reported and 18 deaths.

Five of the deaths were laid to drivers who either had no operator's license or were driving on a learner's permit.

The most dangerous traffic hour was found to be between 5 and 6 p. m.

GUTHRIE JOINS GARBAGE FIGHT

Francis S. Guthrie, as a taxpayer, today asked Common Pleas Court for permission to intervene in proceedings against the city by the Modern Service Company involving the amount of bond to be required in the municipal garbage disposal contract.

The company desires to put up a bond of $750,000 for only one year. Assistant City Solicitor Thomas M. Benner contended the city charter requires a bond for the entire term of the contract, three years. Such a bond would amount to around $2,800,000 and could be obtained the company avers.

SEE ELOPEMENT OF VANDERBILT

RENO, Nev., Aug. 25.—(INS.)—Rumors were current in Reno social circles today that Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., and Mrs. Marie Glass Marshall, who yesterday obtained a divorce from Levin Rothrock Marshall, Jr., New York social registerite, planned to elope.

A check of their residences revealed both had left for the East. Vanderbilt, taking the 3:55 a. m. train out of Reno yesterday morning for Newport, R. I., while Mrs. Glass took the early morning train today.

Lawyer, Accused in Half Million Theft

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 25.—(INS.)—Revelation that at least half a million dollars was missing from the funds of two merged mortgage corporations was made today as Henry D. Bellin, 48, attorney prominent at the Rhode Island bar, was arraigned on a warrant charging conspiracy to defraud one of the two corporations of at least $20,000.

Named with Bellin in the warrant was William M. Pearce, former real estate man of Pawtucket, now serving a term for embezzlement.

Today

not be heard because of the violent booing.

"Oh, that guy is a damned conservative Socialist," says a Communist "comrade," explaining the booing.

MORE PERMANENTLY interesting than food prices or radicalism are the forge plant, axle plant, spring plant and wheel plant of the Chevrolet company, which you explore amid ear crushing din and intense heat for three hours, watching giant hammers smashing red hot blocks of iron into differentials, axles, and other giants of steel working in long rows, no man attending them, polishing, trimming, masking cars.

No wonder Stalin comes from Russia to learn how an agricultural people can be changed into an industrial people. He is hiring hundreds of skilled men in Detroit at this moment and sending over hundreds of Russians to study here.

BUT THE GREAT machine is the human brain, so a few words about Catherine Gleason, of Rochester, N. Y., the spirit back of gear generating machines that you see working automatically in long rows, hundreds of them, in one of the Chevrolet plants.

W. S. Knudsen, president of the Chevrolet company, who gets up earlier than presidents usually do and meets you at the train to show what you want to see, tells you about "Kate" Gleason. The father had no son, but had a wonderful daughter. He put his Kate in overalls when she was a little girl, and took her into the factory with him. Now he is dead and she no longer a little girl, runs the factory and sends all over the world machines that make gears accurate to within one ten thousandth of an inch, such accuracy as no human hand could possibly attain.

IT IS A PLEASURE to walk through factories filled with thousands of workers, accompanied by such a man as Knudsen of Chevrolet. He worked on a railroad when he came here, an immigrant from Denmark, 20 years ago. He worked at anything to make a day's wages and hasn't changed since he wore overalls and the workmen know it.

He knows their machines as well as they do and he knows the workers because he was one of them. He says of prohibition:

"The workers don't want to be made happy in somebody else's way, they want to be happy in their own way."

Prof. Millikan, super-highbrow, says, "There is nothing mysterious about Knudsen's success. Denmark, where he was born and taught, has the best system of education in the world, the most severe and efficient. Not even Germany can compare with it."

New Kensington Man To Head State Elks

HARRISBURG, Aug. 25.—(INS.)—No opposition to his candidacy having developed as the delegates to the silver jubilee convention of the Pennsylvania Elks went into their initial business session here today, M. F. Horne, of New Kensington, vice president, was expected to be nominated for the presidency of the organization.

J. K. F. Weaver, past exalted ruler of the Elks and former Burgess of Tarentum, was to make the nominating speech in Horne's behalf.

Girl Swallows Tack After Scolding, Dies

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Angered because of a scolding, 4-year-old Mavis Bean pulled a tack from her shoe, swallowed it and choked to death yesterday.

SCORES JAILED IN GANG WAR

former secretary of state, who presided, lay the blame on the city administration and on an unholy alliance between politics and the underworld.

They roared their approval when a message from Samuel Seabury, chief counsel to the legislative committee investigating the city government, supported the chairman's contention that gunmen and racketeers have aid from unscrupulous politicians.

BLAMES PROHIBITION

And they listened, too, while Police Commissioner Mulrooney defended Mayor Walker and attributed the increasing warfare of evil on decency to "prohibition, a law the citizens of this city never wanted."

Colby scathingly criticized the city administration and the Police Department for failing to shut speakeasies and other breeding grounds of crime.

While he did not mention either by name, he placed the blame squarely on Tammany Hall and Mayor Walker for existence of present conditions, and said:

"Why is this condition of affairs tolerated?

"The answer is that it is congenial to the whole spirit of our local government.

"Ours is a government of pull. Immunity from prosecution, exemptions from penalties, illicit favors, the myriad shapes privilege takes, are the first, last and most vital concerns of the organization which dominates the city administration.

"The simple facts remain that New York has ceased to be a safe place to live in.

"Babies in the care of their parents are shot to death.

"Children engaged in innocent play on our streets are murdered.

"Peaceful citizens on their way to work or to their homes are dropped in their tracks by the flying bullets of racketeers and gangsters."

FORCE WITHOUT STINT

United States Senator Robert F. Wagner, who followed Colby, said:

"The immediate situation calls for the application of force without stint. Washington reports that the nation spends about a billion dollars a year in the apprehension and punishment of criminals. The American people are ready today to multiply that tenfold, if necessary, to wipe out the habitual thug, who, like the pirate of old, levies his tribute upon all whom he can bring within the fear of his weapons.

"Tonight is as good a time as any to make the unchanging declaration that hereafter in the war against the common enemy we shall adhere to the slogan of a brave American, who said: 'Millions for defense; not one cent for tribute.'"

Gov. Roosevelt wrote urging honest judges, prosecuting officers and honest police. He warned against being attracted by the glamor thrown around the gunman and urged that citizens do their duty as jurors and witnesses.

TYPHOON ADDS TO CHINESE HORROR

Storm Takes Hundreds More Lives Following Flood; Hankow Believed D. .ed

By TED THACKERAY
International News Service.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 25.—The flood-devastated valley of the Yangtse was visited today by new horror in the shape of a raging typhoon which took a new toll of hundreds of lives and aggravated the suffering of the millions of homeless in Hankow and surrounding territory.

Hundreds of structures undermined by the flood waters of the last few weeks collapsed under the force of the raging wind and toppled into the Yangtse, carrying with them scores of Chinese who had taken refuge on rooftops when the waters of the swollen river inundated the area.

BOATS CAPSIZED

Sampans which for the last three weeks have been able to navigate through the flooded streets of Hankow were capsized by the score. Each was loaded to capacity with scores of survivors of the flood disaster. Many were swept to death in the raging torrent.

The double horror of flood and typhoon was feared to have sealed the doom of the great city of inland China and perhaps that of its neighbors, Hanyang and Wuchang. Sweeping down the valley of the Yangtse, the storm struck Shanghai with moderated force, causing only minor damage along the waterfront.

SUPPLIES RUSHED

The American gunboat Tutuila, carrying food and medicinal supplies for American and other refugees, left Shanghai for Hankow this afternoon. Other ships were being loaded with similar cargoes and were due to leave for the flooded area shortly.

The Yangtse was receding today at the rate of two inches daily. It was estimated that at this pace it will take six weeks for the river to reach its former level.

6 TRADES JOIN SCHOOL STRIKE

Six additional building trades have taken men off jobs where union electricians, on strike for more than a week, have been replaced by non-union men. This action ties up seven school projects.

Additional workmen called out are carpenters, bricklayers, tile-setters, marble workers, stone masons and terrazzo workers, all affiliated with Local Union No. 5 International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, whose dispute with the Allegheny County Electrical Contractors' Association started the strike. More than 200 men are involved.

Action by the trades came late yesterday when efforts by Board of Education officials to mediate proved futile. School affected by the strike are the Arsenal, Knoxville, Prospect, Mifflin, Davis, Larimer and Lincoln schools.

The dispute which started the electricians' strike centers in the wage of the foreman. The union is asking $15 a day, whereas the contractors say $13.50 per day is specified in the union's working rules. The wage of $12.50 per day for journeymen has not been changed, contractors declare.

'Pestered' by Brother, Admits Shooting Him

Sweeney Voinovich, 14, of 1219 Liverpool street, admitted in Morals Court today, he had shot and wounded his brother, Charles, 19, in their home last Tuesday when the latter "pestered" him. He was turned over to Juvenile Court by Magistrate T. D. Jones. Charles, who had the bullet removed from his shoulder in St. John's Hospital, was discharged.

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

Steve Was a Very Smart Man

STEVE WAS the kind of a guy who always wanted something for nothing. It doesn't take a particularly brilliant student to figure out the reason. The man loved money. It was the one thing for which he lived. I have a slight hunch he would have died for it, too. Which might not have been a bad idea for everyone concerned.

The gentleman in question was employed by a large express concern. He didn't make any terrific amounts of money, but what he did make was banked with unceasing regularity. The only time he threw anything away was when he broke a shoe lace. And then he thought twice before he reluctantly parted with the remains.

In his office for instance practically all of the employes subscribed to the various baseball and number pools but not Steve. He was a little too smart to gamble. He merely acted as an agent and received his commission of a dollar. (Guess it's a woman.)

And so it went in other directions. Everything that Steve touched brought him some sort of a profit. Before long he was recognized as a very shrewd man by his fellow workers. Unfortunately however, there was somebody else who thought he was pretty clever. And that was Steve himself.

Our friend began to gaze upon himself in the mirror and not approvingly. He knew he wasn't much to look at but he told himself that she was more than made up for in lack of beauty. And when a homely girl can convince herself of that she's pretty close to heaven.

Since he had no vices and didn't seem to be getting any of the ordinary pleasures out of life people often wondered just what Steve wanted so much money in the bank. A semi-friend once asked him about that. And Steve's frankness enough was frank in his reply for once.

"I have an ambition," he asserted. "All my life I've been working for it. And some day I'm going to get it. I want a home of my own."

"I don't want a big place of course. That would cost too much money. Just a little place that I could support on my income. Then I would have something to live for and enjoy. What more could a man ask?"

As usually looms true in such cases Steve loved a woman who was quite different from himself. She wasn't a particularly bad damsel but she was in no means averse to taking a drink and grabbing a bit of so-called fun whenever the opportunity presented itself. She wasn't in love with Steve, but she was growing older than she liked to admit. And if Steve had asked her she would readily have taken the plunge for better or for worse.

But Steve, although in love, was unwilling to go over the brink. He reached the edge many times but when he thought of the added expense that a wife might mean, he fell back 20 paces. And the days turned into months. The months into years.

On a certain date we find Steve with sufficient funds to purchase the one thing that meant so much to him—a home of his own. After a long albeit pleasurable search he finally picked the home he wanted. There was but one drawback. What's that? Yes, you've guessed it. A little too much money.

At the office the next day Steve finally hit upon a plan. Didn't everybody know he was shrewd and clever? Yes sir! Steve knew it himself. The plan he conceived would not only bring him the home at a more reasonable price but it would give him a wife as well. Could anyone ask for more? I think so, but for the purposes of this story let's say no.

At his very next opportunity Steve visited the real estate dealer. The dealer was more than the ordinary agent for he was the moving spirit in a development in which Steve wished to locate. All of which Steve knew very well.

Mr. Jones," said the wise man, "I have a proposition to make to you."

The real estate man nodded.

"Fine," he returned affably. "I'm always interested in propositions. What's yours?"

I can't buy the home I had in mind," replied Steve swiftly. "The price is just a little heavier than I anticipated. I have a friend however, who is more than interested. She's a woman with quite a bit of money. And I know she would like to buy."

Suppose I brought her down to look at the property. And suppose she became interested. Would you be willing to turn over to me say $500 for my trouble?"

The agent chewed on his cigar.

"Well," he murmured, "that's a lot of money these days, and if it knocks my commission or the sale for more than a goal. But things are not so hot these days and I want to put all the sales I can on my books."

"It's not very good business, but I'll take you up on it. When can I meet this woman?"

Pretty soon Steve introduced his wife-to-be to the real estate man. He gave her the necessary money to buy the property in her own name. And as soon as the deal was made they were married.

Steve pocketed his $500 and moved into the chosen home with the wife who had liked gay times. Whenever he thought of the real estate man he laughed out loud. So that bird thought he was smart, did he?

As soon as Steve and Mrs. Steve were settled, the real estate man began to visit their home. At first he called on a business pretense. But he shortly discarded the business angle and began to drop in as a friend.

Steve didn't like that "friend" business. He knew he had put one over on the other gentleman, and he had a sneaking suspicion that the other man was not the type to forget very easily. More than that, the agent was a drinking man. And Steve would arrive home in the early evening to find the dealer and his wife sipping highballs and seemingly on the very friendliest of terms.

For a matter of six months or so Steve failed to complain aloud. But he finally came to the conclusion that things were not as kosher as they might have been. And he told his wife all about it.

"I don't like that man," he cried, "and I have reason to believe that he doesn't like me. He's not my friend and I don't want him around here."

Mrs. Steve poured herself another highball.

"Mr. Jones is my friend," she smiled, "and I want him around here. He can come when he pleases and he can go at exactly the same time. If you feel like arguing just remember that this house is in my name."

Steve was ousting, but he said nothing. He hasn't said anything to this day. Because he knows that if he squawks too loudly he'll not only lose his wife but his home as well. And that would cost plenty of money.

So Steve keeps very quiet and closes his eyes whenever he gets near his home. And all the boys in the office still think him a very wise man.

$10,000 SUIT LOST BY FORD

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Henry Ford, automobile magnate, must pay damages of $10,000 and permanently cease from diverting the waters of Hop Brook on his Wayside Inn properties in Sudbury. A decision to that effect was handed down in Middlesex Superior Equity Court.

Joseph I. Sturtevant, who owns an estate near Ford's, filed the suit, charging that the mills and dams at the Ford estate had reduced the flow of water in the brook and damaged his estate.

Giant Tin Pool Reported Formed

Home for Aged Fire Rescue Hero Buried

Philip D. Cooke, 52, of 4529 Friendship avenue, a retired fire captain, was buried yesterday in Calvary Cemetery. Cooke, who had been in ill health for a number of years, played a heroic part at the fire in the Little Sisters of the Poor Home for the Aged, July 24. His condition was aggravated by his rescue work at the fire and he died Thursday in St. Francis Hospital.

Mexican State Opens Cut-rate Food Shops

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—The federal district government today opened a cut-rate service for sale of prime food necessities, establishing stands in various parts of the city where beans, corn and other articles are sold at prices within the reach of the poorer classes.

The service was established to prevent private merchants from raising prices of food, a tendency which has been marked in the last few weeks.

Injured Man Found On Railway Tracks

Edward Proffer, 39, of 157 Greenfield avenue, was in Montefiore Hospital today with injuries to his legs, right arm and shoulder. He was found on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks at the foot of Lonsworth street, by H. E. Evans, an engineer, who sent him to the hospital. He was unable to tell hospital attaches how he was injured.

SIREN DROPPED BY POLICE CARS

Lack of movie-thriller excitement with shrieking sirens on police radio cars dashing through city streets today was explained by Assistant Supt. of Police Ben Marshall as due to a safety measure adopted to prevent accidents.

The cars are equipped with horns, Marshall declared, so police in speeding to a call must exert extra care in driving through traffic. He explained:

"When the siren was used, the warning was depended upon to clear traffic. It failed in this respect and there were accidents. The driver now must resort to a horn to clear his path and while it cuts the speed it nevertheless prevents accidents. Sirens will not be used."

Series of Quakes Rock India City

LONDON, Aug. 25.—(INS.)—A series of earthquake shocks at Quetta, India, a city of 49,000, today wrecked a number of houses, according to reports received by London newspapers.

Rash on Back Caused Water Blisters. Healed by Cuticura.

"During the summer of 1930 a rash came out on my back. It itched so that it caused me to scratch and water blisters formed. They were very red and itchy and I lost my sleep at night on account of the irritation. The trouble lasted about a month and a half.

"My mother advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I purchased some. I washed the affected parts with the Soap and then applied the Ointment. In about two weeks the trouble disappeared. I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Anna J. Boltz, 1940 Kensington St., Harrisburg, Pa., March 5, 1931.

BOOK RECORDS GIFFIN HISTORY

A feature of the twentieth biennial reunion of the Giffin family, of Western Pennsylvania, to be held at Washington Park tomorrow, at which several generations will be represented, will be the reading of a manuscript of a book, "The History of the Giffin Family," which is expected to be published this year.

The book is the product of 15 years of research by a publication committee headed by the Rev. Dr. Isaac Boyce, of Bellevue. The first member of the family to come to this country from Scotland was Andrew Giffin, who lived in Western Pennsylvania when this section was considered the "country beyond the mountains infested by murderous Indians."

W. E. Giffin is president of the organization, which has a membership of nearly 300, and Miss Alice Fred is secretary.

The film consists of scenes photographed throughout the European territory of U. S. S. R. from the Finnish border to the Caucasus and Persia, and depicts the efforts of the peasants to throw off the old habits and customs for the new.

Talk Films to 'Glorify' Floating Casinos

Constance Bennett to Play Gay Gambling Girl In New Picture

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1931, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 25.

A ship of chance, like the ones that anchor off the California coast and take in thousands of dollars on roulette, dice and card games, will be the novel background of a coming Constance Bennett picture at RKO-Pathe.

Announcement of this is made by Charles Rogers, production head, who has assigned Robert Shannon and Wilson Mizner to write the story. For the time being, at least, the title of the film is "The Gambling Girl."

Constance Bennett

These floating casinos operate beyond the reach of the law, yet are easily accessible by speedboats. Lovers of the forbidden sport can play the wheel to their hearts' content, or tiring, can sit and enjoy a well-cooked meal. The one thing forbidden is liquor—sale of which gives the law its only chance to interfere.

Apparently, this story will deviate from the recent formula of Constance Bennett pictures—the working girl who graduates to luxury. In the meanwhile, however, the star has to make "Compromised." This is the Tay Garnett story, once known as "Salvaged."

LATEST GOSSIP

Yesterday was the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of James and Lucille Gleason. Jimmie is working in a picture at San Diego, but planned to get home for the celebration. . . . George Jean Nathan has written for some data about Jim Tully. The Irish author is to have a chapter in Nathan's new book, "Friends of Mine." Others honored are said to be Joseph Hergesheimer, Theodore Dreiser, Eugene O'Neill, H. L. Mencken, St. John Ervine and Sinclair Lewis . . . . Janet Gaynor is back in Hollywood from a vacation in the Rogue River country. Incidentally, Lydell Peck, Janet's husband, has quit Paramount, where he worked for some time in the production department . . . . Roland Brown, director of "Quick Millions," is the latest cinema celebrity to take up polo . . . . Clark Gable has been ill for a week. He caught a severe cold working all night in a tank of water . . . Anna Q. Nilsson seems to be completely recovered from her hip injury. She plays tennis, which ought to be proof enough . . . . Robert Woolsey's dog, "Rusty," which worked with him for six years in vaudeville, has disappeared. If you find him, there's a liberal reward.

Janet Gaynor

HEROIC METHODS

Waldemar Young, taking over the job of master of ceremonies at the Writers' Club, introduced a sketch as follows:

"For some time Hollywood has confused F. Hugh Herbert, the writer, and Hugh Herbert, the comedian."

"Tonight you will see a sketch written by F. Hugh Herbert. And to prove definitely he isn't the actor, he will play the leading role."

PLANNED FOR JOAN

When John Meehan finishes the talkie version of Hall Caine's novel, "The Christian," it is likely to emerge as a starring vehicle for a woman.

And the woman, rumor declares, will be Joan Crawford. I asked her about it but she says that, like Will Rogers, all she knows is what she reads in the papers.

Virtue Wins At Show Boat

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

Virtue scores another sweeping victory in "Lena Rivers" on Capt. Menke's world's greatest and most palatial Golden Rod Show Boat this week.

The cruel, thin finger of scandal points, but the wagging tongues are stopped in the fourth act when Lena is justly acknowledged by her father. All is forgiven, all is peace and light and the hero and heroine live happily ever after.

"Lena Rivers" is the story of a simple little New England girl who is transplanted into a new world of haughty Kentucky society. The blue bloods dig around the roots of Lena's family tree and find some missing links. Life would have been pretty tough for Lena if it hadn't been for handsome Durward Belmont.

Lena's father, who deserted her before she had her first set of teeth but who is now much the Kentucky gentleman, runs across her and showers her with gifts in a feeble attempt to atone for his past sin. His new blue grass wife suspects an intrigue and the plot thickens.

We don't have to tell you that Lena's family tree finally emerges from the weeds and virtue wins as it always does on the Show Boat.

Capt. Menke's floating palace of entertainment is lots of fun but we have one suggestion to make. He needs a well trained claque. We don't mean a hand clapping claque. The audience shows plenty of enthusiasm and even cheers the triumphs of the heroine.

The Show Boat needs a hissing claque. About the end of the third act the audience usually gets warmed up to its part of the entertainment and rewards each dastardly deed of the villain with the noise of 20 leaky steam radiators on a January day. But the hissing claque would help a lot by getting the audience thoroughly organized in the first act to give the villain his due from the start.

We volunteer our services as a nucleus for a hissing claque at a very modest remuneration.

Miracle Girl Shouts in Warner

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

Barbara Stanwyck, the "Night Nurse" heroine of a few weeks back, is an evangelist now. She's in the Warner in "The Miracle Woman," shouting her gospel loud enough to drown out the sound of Gabriel's horn. And there is more ballyhoo attending her sermons than at a Hollywood premiere.

The story, in substance, is the evolution of a preacher's daughter. This girl develops into a hokum evangelist and ends up as a Salvation Army lassie.

It all begins when her father dies of a broken heart. She blames it on his congregation, and one bright Sunday morning she climbs into the pulpit. And does she read the riot act! The volley of her words is too much for the dressed-up churchgoers, and they make for the doors.

A MODERN DANIEL

She meets up with an adventuring promoter, and 'tis he who puts her in a tabernacle. Here she gives a modern version of Daniel in the lion's den, and she plays to standing room only. Then a blind war veteran enters, and the romance commences.

Our heroine is really true blue. She hates her fake religion. And a big fire scene shows her the way out. The promise of happiness is there at the finale.

The romantic angle is the most pleasant part of the film. This, at least, attains an element of sincerity. David Manners, remembered as the Raleigh in "Journey's End," handles the blind veteran in sympathetic style.

Miss Stanwyck herself is an interesting actress. More of a shouter than an orator, she is at her best when she's away from the tabernacle.

There are other capable players. Beryl Mercer gives another of her quaint, motherly portrayals. And Sam Hardy is in the promoter's shoes. Need we tell you that he amply fills them?

There's No Such Thing as A Broken Heart

"If I Can't Have You, I'll Drown Myself."

That's the Big Boy's Theme Song.

And he croons it with tears in his voice every time Floss tells him that she doesn't and can't love him.

It's giving Floss the heebie jeebies, but what can she do about it? That's what she wants to know.

Got any ideas?

Dear Miss Martin:

I am just another one of those foolish girls who don't know how to get out of a tight place, so I am coming to you hoping you'll be able to suggest something.

A few months ago I met a young man and when he asked for my phone number, I gave it to him. I figured he was just another friend. But here's how it worked out. I went out with him a week after that first meeting and ever since he insists on seeing me every evening.

BECOMES ANGRY

When I tell him I don't want to see him, he gets angry and very downcast. That makes me feel terrible because he really is nice and well-behaved. But I don't love him as he wants me to. I just can't. I told him so, and he said he would just take me out as a sister. So long as he can keep seeing me. What could I say to that? I hate to offend him like I have some of the others. Yet I'm getting further into the jam and going nutty.

Things can't go on like this much longer, and I have told him so. Some day I may find a young man for whom I can care . . . and then it will be pretty hard to break the news to this one. He says he will "take it on the chin," but he also tells me that when he doesn't see me . . . or sees me with someone else, he feels like drowning himself.

I tell him to get interested in someone else, but he says that he can't, that if he can't have me, he doesn't want anyone else. Isn't that ridiculous?

But please, Miss Martin, what can I do? He is nice and decent, but I can't see him other than as just a friend. He is so persistent! I'm getting simply goofy. "FLOSS."

What'll you do?

KINDEST WAY

But you don't want to hurt him? Sure you don't. And that's why you must break this thing up now. Because the plain fact is that you are hurting him by seeing him, and temporizing with him as you're doing now. You're hurting him far more than you would be if you broke with him pronto and permanent.

Does that sound strange and hard-hearted? It isn't. It's the kindest thing you can do.

Why? Because, although you have told him repeatedly that you can never love him, so long as you let him hang around, he doesn't believe you. He keeps deceiving himself with a hope that you're just being coy and holding him off, or that you'll change your mind if he's persistent enough. And so he, as well as yourself, keeps getting deeper and deeper into the jam.

WILL BE THANKFUL

The next time he asks for a date, tell him, in all kindness and friendliness — but with plenty of firmness, too — that you can't see him . . . and stick to it. Don't let him make you weaken under his pleading. Of course, he'll tell you that his heart is breaking — and probably put on a big sob act. But stick to your guns.

His heart'll mend, if you give it a chance, no matter what he thinks now. And some day, he'll thank you for not keeping him dangling with false hopes.

Young and Childless Wives Do Not Deserve Alimony Graft, Says Fay King

THOSE WHO DESERVE ALIMONY SHOULD RECEIVE IT WITHOUT ANY HUMILIATION GIMME!
FAY KING

By FAY KING.

Alimony will always be ali-MOANY!

Being awarded alimony and getting alimony are two entirely different matters.

The hem and haw and humiliation a woman must endure to get even the alimony she is entitled to is hardly worth the pittance she is paid, and happy is that woman who doesn't want or demand it.

Alimony should be paid to a woman who has little children to raise and educate. It should be paid to a divorced woman who is too ill to care for herself. And if a man is rich and deliberately puts aside a wife of the lean years to marry a flapper, his wife should receive a good settlement.

But young, childless women married for a few years do not deserve alimony graft!

Heart of a Wife -:- Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Memories of Her First Romance Brought Back to Madge

I winced under Lillian's shrewd glance at me and her apparently bantering query as to my possible fear that my baby daughter, if left to Katherine's care, might learn to love her better than she did me. She had struck a hidden something that I had not yet acknowledged to myself.

"I don't think I need to worry over that point with a month-old baby," I retorted with a forced little laugh. "But don't you see, Lillian, I must not count upon Katherine. It isn't fair to expect that she will always give up her life to taking care of my children."

"I'll grant you that," she said surprisingly, "and we'll lay it on the table for future reference." Her tone, purposely, I knew was that of an officious clubwoman. "But, may I ask you, dear heart, just what Katherine would be doing if she were not with you?"

"Why," I said floundering, "I suppose she'd be practicing her profession — no Jack is bitterly opposed to that — but, of course, he won't be staying down in South America much longer, and when he does come back——"

"When he does come back," Lillian repeated the words slowly, "do you imagine that Katherine and he are going to pick up the very tangled skein of their lives where they laid it down?"

Her voice was low and she glanced warily at the door to be sure that no one was overhearing us, but her words were emphatic and I felt a sudden uneasy discomfort at having something brought out in the open which I thought was only as yet but a figment of my own imagination.

Of course, Lillian knew as well as I the sad story of Katherine's marriage to my brother-cousin. But memory gave me back several tender mental photographs of Katherine which Lillian never had seen. I closed my eyes for a second, and visualized the brown-eyed winsome sprite she had been when she had been sent to my mother-in-law, suffering from threatened pneumonia and the most difficult of patients. She had proved herself as efficient in her profession as she was lovable, and there had begun a friendship between us which never had weakened for a moment. I remembered the moment of confidence when she had brought out a scrap book to get a chafing-dish recipe, and I had spied in it a snapshot of Jack Bickett my brother-cousin and had realized more than she knew herself of the romantic ideal she held of him. She never had seen him, but he had been her brother's friend, and his letters to her brother had made her heart ready for his wooing when later they met in France, he a wounded officer from the French army, she a nurse from the hospital headed by Dicky's brother-in-law, Dr. Edwin Braithwaite.

I remembered something else, also, not so creditable, the reluctance with which I had obtained her chance to go to France. I had not admitted it even to myself then, but now, with the amused half-shamed retrospect with which one views past folly, I knew that my reluctance had its roots in a petty fear that those two might meet and love each other.

For Jack Bickett, my "brother-cousin," whose father was a cousin of my own mother's, was the only man in my life before Dicky. He had been brought up with me, and though my mother would not speak the wish aloud, I knew that she longed to have me marry him, but both of us tactly were content with our affectionate comradeship into which no hint of romance had yet come.

Then Jack's profession had taken him into the wilds of South America for a year, and in that year two things changing my whole life, had happened. My little mother had died suddenly and then Dicky had appeared in my life, taking me by storm with his wooing, and giving me no peace until I married him.

I was so deliriously happy in those days of my wooing and my honeymoon that I had given no thought to Jack, sent no word to him, and my first real quarrel with Dicky had come over a letter Jack sent me. It was addressed "Miss Margaret Spencer," sent on from my old boarding place, and breathed in every line his joy in getting back to me. When, after a scene with Dicky, I went to meet the only person in the world—as I then thought—of what my mother used to call "my own blood kin," I learned before I could tell him of my marriage that he had loved me from my childhood and counted upon making me his wife. He had made no secret of the blow the news of my marriage was to him, and a week later had sailed to offer his services as engineer to the French army, as our own country was not yet in the war.

I could smile tenderly now over that agonized parting, remorse on my side, frustrated hope on his, for Jack had found complete Lethe in his love for Katherine, flowering from his first sight of her lovely winsome face. He had slipped back easily into his status of brother-cousin and stanch friend and had been instrumental in bringing Dicky back to me after a terrible misunderstanding when my father unexpectedly came back into my life.

But there has been little happiness for Katherine with Jack, auspicious as her marriage had been. Whether from his war injuries, or from an unsuspected kink in his own mental make-up, he had tragically changed into a man so moody, so stern, so captious, so unjust in his treatment of the wife whom at first he had loved so tenderly, that Katherine had not dared to have a child who might suffer as she had from his changed nature.

Lillian had spoken truly. It was a tangled skein, and as I came back from the reverie induced by her question, I answered it mournfully in the only way I could.

"I don't know," I said.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Backache One of Man's Most Common Ailments

One of man's most common complaints is backache. It may be so severe as to incapacitate him completely.

Dr Copeland

It drives the sufferer to all kinds of medicines and appliances in attempts to find relief. It may cause him to be bedridden for many weeks.

Various things may cause backache. The most common and important cause is a sprain of the "sacro-iliac articulation."

The joint is located at the lowest portion of the spine. It marks the place of contact between the spine and the hip bone.

The condition of strain or sprain may be brought on by a fall, by lifting a heavy weight, by a blow or a sudden twist. The condition may follow long-continued standing, bending, lying or sitting. Some cases in women have appeared after childbirth.

The sprain causes severe pain. This is made worse by standing, by rising from a sitting position, or by any movement which jars the sacro-iliac joint.

Although the pain may be localized in the joint, the discomfort is more that of a general backache. Sometimes the pain involves the sciatic nerve and travels down the back of both legs to the ankles.

The victims of this complaint often know of the weakness and have a feeling of complete helplessness in consequence. They dread the effect of any sudden jar or twist.

There are various forms of treatment. The most successful is rest in bed. If every individual who has had a recent attack of this nature would only realize the amount of suffering and torture escaped by immediately going to bed, less misery would follow sacro-iliac sprain.

Strapping by adhesive plaster which is enforced by canvas rolled around the waist is one of the quickest methods of taking pressure off the joint. In most cases there is immediate relief of the pain.

For most individuals who are susceptible to this type of strain, I recommend a supportive brace of some kind. This appliance is best obtained by prescription of the physician who is familiar with the case. But any store where surgical appliances are sold will supply an adjustable belt which gives an immense amount of comfort.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The Wedding Processional

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am planning my wedding and would appreciate your opinion on the following. I have two dear friends whom I would wish to attend me—one married and one unmarried. I want one for matron of honor and the other as maid of honor. Will you kindly give me full information about their marching in the procession? S.

Many brides these days have both a matron of honor and a maid of honor, so you will be quite "in the mode." There is no definite rule as to how they are to march in the processional. Some brides have them dressed alike and have them walk together. I am not in favor of this, for in a processional I am enthusiastic about having each person in the wedding march in the place where her position indicates the honor that the bride wishes to bestow on her. Since each of these attendants is an "honor" attendant, the "honor" should be emphasized by having each walk alone. It is definite that the ushers walk first in the processional and after them the bridesmaids. Now, whether the matron of honor or the maid of honor comes next depends on the choice of the bride. Usually the maid of honor is given the position of most honor, just in front of the bride. But if the matron of honor is closer to the bride in relationship or friendship, then the bride may choose to have her walk in front of her.

Marriage After Bereavement

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

At a marriage which takes place six months after there has been a death in the family, would it be considered proper to have a small reception or breakfast at which only the relatives and closest friends would be invited? Or under such conditions, should there be only a very quiet wedding with the bride and groom leaving immediately after the ceremony?

E. J. L.

The latter is, of course, the better form, for it makes the marriage the only event, and omits the wedding festivities. But the first is often done, and is in good taste if the list of guests is really limited to close relatives and a few close friends.

Household Hints

Keep the coffee sealed in a glass or tin container.

Remember there is no bleach like sunshine. If you want to whiten clothes, spread them on the grass without wringing them. A few soakings and dryings will make the most obstinate article beautifully white.

A china gravy boat is a splendid article for filling jars and tumblers with jelly and preserves. It is easily dipped into the hot syrup by means of the handle and the long spout will fill almost any size tumbler and thus prevent spilling.

A cloth wet with equal parts of sweet oil and lime water applied to a burn will bring great relief.

If the job is taken in time when the hole is quite small the garden hose may be patched with adhesive tape.

If you wish to use a medicine bottle for another purpose and the odor still clings to it from its former contents, fill it half full of cold water and add one tablespoonful dry mustard. Shake thoroughly. Let stand for half a day and rinse carefully in cold water.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

When the big toe slants in toward the foot, beware. A bunion may be on the way. Wear a cotton pad between big toe and its next door neighbor, and get shoes that permit toe spread. Narrow shoes put a curse on feet.

A good way to turn a double chin into single blessedness is to grip the back of the neck firmly, and move the chin up and down. The hand holds flesh and muscles tight, and the exercise is effective. Try it. Easy. It woiks.

Heavy massage will batten down heavy upper arms. The supplicant for scantier anatomical lines can't do the job herself. Must get strong-armed operator who doesn't care how hard she works. Swinging Indian clubs will make fat cells fly; dumbbell exercises are recommended. Any movement that pulls on muscles dissolves fatty tissues.

Just brushing the teeth isn't sufficient care to insure their health and preservance. Dental floss should be passed between the teeth once a day. Toothpicks should be avoided; they injure the gums, cause abrasions which attract germs. A mouth wash should be used as a nice finishing-up to the scouring of white pearls. And every six months one should go see the dentist, who will remove tartar and get after small cavities that are making inroads into dentine.

Thar's been a lot of hair-cutting again this summer. Elegant to run short of hair again, to burrow fingers up the back of the head through a short crop. No pigtail material to stow away. However, nobody can say whether short or shoulder length is the proper caper because they're running neck and neck, one style being exactly as good as the other. You take your choice. The wad at the back makes a young girl look older, but some young girls like that, the sweet little senseless creatures.

VATICAN DENIES SPANISH RIFT

VATICAN CITY, Aug. 25.—(INS.)—A report originating in Madrid that relations between Spain and the Vatican were nearing the breaking point was formally denied by the Vatican today. It was understood the papal nuncio to Spain was planning to visit Rome to discuss Spain's new religious policy.

Definite indication furthermore was given that the lengthy dispute between church and state in Italy was nearing solution. Pope Pius XI in an address before a group of 60 young Catholics from Naples said:

"You certainly would like to ask us what is to be expected from our hopes. We can answer: Have faith, great and unshakeable faith in divine providence.

"It is only a question of patience and waiting. Everything will certainly have a favorable solution in a very short or longer time. We cannot say yet."

The Vatican also issued a denial of reports from Riga that diplomatic relations between Lithuania and the Holy See had been broken off.

3 DEATHS BRING AIR INQUIRY

Testimony of experts will feature the inquests of three victims of airplane accidents in Allegheny County, Coroner W. J. McGregor said today in announcing an investigation into the safety regulations and inspections of planes flying in and out of Pittsburgh.

Decision to launch the probe was made by the Coroner following the crash Sunday in Plum Township which cost the lives of Jacob Zays, pilot, of 1913 Pine way, Braddock, and his passenger, Joe Petrosk, of 2344 McCook street. Zays had been licensed only three weeks.

Landis R. Byler, sales agent of the Curtiss-Wright Company, seriously injured June 6, when a plane in which he was a passenger crashed on the Thornburg golf course, killing Henry R. Ludewig, the pilot, was questioned yesterday in Mercy Hospital by a Deputy Coroner.

WOMEN JAILED AS CUBAN FOES

HAVANA, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Detention of four of the leading figures in the Cuban feminist movement and the bombing of a representative's home marked Cuba's waning revolution today.

Those arrested were Mrs. Pilar Jorge de Telia, Miss Perez Reyes, Miss Ana Quintana and Miss Leonora Ferreira. Police said they were searching for four more prominent Cuban women alleged to be furthering the interests of the revolt. They were taken immediately to the women's prison at Guanabacoa.

A bomb was exploded early today on a principal street, causing general alarm but little damage. It was said the bomb was hurled from a speeding automobile. The "Compania De Electricidad" Building is located near the spot.

HYMIE WITNESS OFFERED BRIBE

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 25.—(AP.)—The declaration that her husband, who identified "Pittsburgh Hymie" Martin was the man who rented the apartment where former Councilman William E. Potter was killed February 3, was offered money to send him out of Cleveland, had been made today by Mrs. Margaret Laub.

Mrs. Laub said she was present when her husband, Fred G. Laub, was made the offer, which was some time after Martin was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment at Ohio Penitentiary.

She likewise sa'd she had seen, within a week, Betty Gray, star witness against Martin. Miss Gray has been the object of police search for more than a month.

Theater Workman Hurt, Asks $50,000

John Raab, of Pittsburgh, a plumber, filed suit in Federal Court for $50,000 damages against the Bass Construction Company, of Chicago, and the Wheeling Iron Works, of Wheeling. While working on the ground floor of the Heinz Theater, North Side, on June 30, 1930, he avers he was permanently injured by being struck with a steel beam that fell from an upper floor, and charges negligence and carelessness of employes of the two defendant concerns.

15 Hurt as Spanish Guards Battle Mobs

MADRID, Aug. 25.—(INS.)—Fifteen persons were wounded in clashes between riotous mobs and civil guards in Pamplona last night, it was learned today.

Two divisions of troops have been concentrated in Basque and Navarra provinces, ostensibly for maneuvers, but reports of widespread counter-revolutionary activity in those sections of the country continue.

Two in Hospital After Autos Collide

Andrew Silverheart, 55, of Shaler Township, and Catherine Barber, 51, of 607 Nash street, suffered lacerations of the face and arms early today when their automobile, backing out from a barbecue on Babcock boulevard, was struck by another machine. They were removed to St. Francis Hospital.

Boy Coach Builders Cheer Comrades Who Win Fisher Awards

DETROIT, Aug. 25.—One hundred boys, one of them from Pittsburgh, cheered themselves hoarse last night as W. A. Fisher, president of the Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild, presented university scholarships to four of their fellow guild members, the national winners in the $50,000 coach building competition sponsored by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and the guild.

A highlight of the evening was the announcement by Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors Corporation, that the doors of General Motors are open to the entire 104 boys as soon as they finish their schooling.

SLOAN LAUDS BOYS

Mr. Sloan said:

"I hope that when you have completed your school training every one of you 104 winners will give us the opportunity of talking about an association with us in our business. General Motors needs qualities that I have mentioned and the accomplishment that brings us together tonight is an indication that you boys have within you a foundation upon which to build."

Two Pennsylvania boys attending the guild meeting are Ferdinand Strothman, of 231 Waldorf street, Pittsburgh, and Raymond F. Sekulski, of Harrisburg, selected at the recent state judging as the most skillful model coach builders in Pennsylvania. They are here as the guest of the guild and, though each secretly hoped that his entry might be judged worthy of one of the coveted scholarships, they demonstrated the close relation between craftsmanship and scholarship by joining the deafening chorus of approval at the judges' decision.

The four boys selected for the scholarships are Donald C. Burnham, 16, of West Lafayette, Ind.; Howard Jennings, 16, of Denver, Col.; Raymond S. Doerr, 19, of Battle Creek, Mich., and Albert Fischer, 19, of Waukegan, Ill. Each is entitled to four years in the university of his choice.

M'NAMEE IN CHARGE

The dinner at which the year's competition reached its climax was broadcast over a nation-wide network as a feature of the General Motors Hour. Graham McNamee came here from New York to act as master of ceremonies and gave each of the scholarship winners a moment at the microphone. President Fisher's presentation talk included the announcement that the guild competition would be repeated next year.

Among the honorary guests was Arthur Brisbane, whose "Today" column and editorials appear in this newspaper. Brisbane spoke briefly to the boys, saying in part:

"Your activity in the Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild assures them that their activity in the Guild was thoroughly worth while because it helped to teach you how to think."

R. L. Sackett, dean of engineering of Pennsylvania State College, also occupied a seat at the speakers' table.

OFFICER SAYS GUN CHARGE IS FRAMEUP

Denies Giving Weapon to Convict; Stolen Month Before He Joined Force

Patrolman George Zellers, of the North Side Police Station, was suspended from duty today and ordered to face the Police Trial Board tomorrow on charges made by John Hosek, arrested in an attempted holdup of West View Park messengers delivering the park receipts to the Farmers Deposit National Bank on August 6.

Hosek charged that the gun with which he attempted the holdup had been given him by Zellers.

Investigation disclosed that the revolver, the property of Wagonman Joseph Voegler, of Central Station, had been stolen January 19, almost a month before Zellers became a policeman.

Plainclothesmen took Zellers to the county jail today where Hosak identified him as the man from whom he purchased the gun.

Zellers said:

"I didn't give Hosak the gun. He is framing me."

Director of Public Safety James M. Clark and Supt. of Police Peter P. Walsh said they intended to make a thorough investigation of the affair.

Schad Blames Duplications In Overcrowded Sections For Census Variations

The co-operation of the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes has been pledged to the elections fraud committee of the Allegheny County Bar Association.

Four members of the committee met late yesterday with Chairman George J. Schad and Secretary Charles J. McBride, of the board. After scrutinizing the personal occupation tax books of the First Ward they arranged for a complete check-up of the board's records to assist in prevention of fraudulent registration.

FIRST WARD FIGURES

Chairman Schad, questioned about published reports of padding of the assessment books, produced the "Personal Occupation Books" in which persons who wish to register to vote in the primary election must be enrolled. In the First Ward, contrary to published reports of 14,628 assessments, but 5,817 names are on the books.

This number will be somewhat larger, Schad said, due to the adding of names to the books of persons who appear at the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes prior to September 2 and are assessed by affidavit. The names at present on the books are those placed there in the personal canvass made last year by the subordinate assessors.

WARD ASSESSMENTS

Those assessed in the other city wards and eligible to vote if they register on either of the two registration days in September, according to the figures given the bar association committee, are:

Ward—	Assessed.
Second	4,147
Third	15,013
Fourth	19,141
Fifth	13,108
Sixth	9,374
Seventh	7,620
Eighth	8,533
Ninth	8,911
Tenth	11,267
Eleventh	13,657
Twelfth	13,320
Thirteenth	1 ,785
Fourteenth	18,944
Fifteenth	12,378
Sixteenth	10,082
Seventeenth	10,062
Eighteenth	8,616
Nineteenth	13,950
Twentieth	10,721
Twenty-first	13,995
Twenty-second	8,926
Twenty-third	8,706
Twenty-fourth	6,004
Twenty-fifth	8,010
Twenty-sixth	9,412
Twenty-seventh	10,607
Twenty-eighth	2,815
Twenty-ninth	4,794
Thirtieth	4,790
Thirty-first	3,137
Thirty-second	3,567

VARIANCE EXPLAINED

In connection with published reports showing that a great number of assessments are credited to some wards in some cases exceeding the 1930 federal census figures, Chairman Schad said:

"In taking the total assessment figures in some wards, no doubt there are cases where this figure would exceed the census figures. But every piece of vacant property is assessed against the non-resident taxpayer. There are also duplications in cases where persons are assessed for their occupation and also for personal property. However, the total figures are meaningless insofar as resident taxpayers are concerned. The only persons qualified to register are those whose names appear in the personal occupation books which are now known as the poll tax books. In the Nineteenth Ward, the figure seems to be high in proportion to other wards. This is perhaps the most thickly-populated rooming and apartment house section of the city. The assessor, A. E. Mamaux, who has been in that ward five years, assures us that he personally made the canvass and obtained the names that are on the books. They show but a slight variation in the last five years."

All We Need Now Is David Harum As Sec'y. of Swap

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

We're swapping wheat for Brazilian coffee, gold for European paper and prosperity for any substitute.

Better keep some of that wheat for an emergency. It's a question whether breakfast will be coffee without wheat cakes or whether it will be wheat cakes without coffee.

Europe has outsmarted us all along in every detail. What we now need in Washington is a David Harum who can start with a spavined, swaybacked mule and come home with the Whitney stable.

We are going to trade cotton with China at the rate of a lone bale for a bowl of chop suey which will taste exactly like the cotton.

Looks like the administration has finally gone into the used car business. And while we are in the trading racket don't forget that an Eskimo loves gumdrops, the Hottentots go mad over cracked phonograph records and that a little boy will do anything for a jackknife.

And the writer will trade a stringless ukulele and a weejee board for a backgammon set in good condition.

CHURCH PAPER RAPS 'MACHINE'

Copies of the weekly calendar of Mt. Lebanon M. E. Church appeared today in the Magee Building headquarters of the "Independent Republican" ticket, due, evidently to the fact that the forward by the pastor, the Rev. Dr. J. E. Wagner, gave promise that individual candidates would be analyzed in the near future. Dr. Wagner was quoted as saying:

"Every God-fearing, country-loving citizen will vote in the coming primary and will vote in the fear of the Lord. Selfish machines and corrupt machine owners and managers ought to be kept out of control of the city and county business. Honest, faithful and unselfish men, free to pursue their conscience dictates, whose souls and votes are their own, should be elected to every office.

"City and county have themselves to thank when they are machine ruled and when they pay double for it.

"Christian men and women must vote and they must be sure they vote their own consciences and convictions. A good slogan is 'Smash the Machines.'"

TEACHER'S HELP IN MODELLING AND JEWELRY-MAKING TO FILL THE PLEASANT DAYS

Needy Mothers, Children Feted at Lillian Home

By PENELOPE REDD

The society editor will not report the return of the anonymous 1,500 mothers and children who have enjoyed a holiday at the Lillian Fresh Air Home at Valencia when the season closes soon.

Penelope Redd

In a quiet grove on the 90-acre estate, the Lillian Rest continues its year-round program of entertaining adult guests who are convalescing from illness or infants and children who are suffering from malnutrition.

At the Lillian Rest, a spacious Georgian mansion house, the guests literally represent the seven ages of man in their range from 6 weeks to 60 years.

Both the Lillian Rest and the Lillian Fresh Air Home are operated by the Kingsley Association which has also a community center in the city on Larimer avenue.

Mrs. Charles C. Cooper is director of the Kingsley Association.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 25.

Did you ever see as many things happen to a country in one year? One disappointment after another.

Will Rogers

We had Al Capone headed for jail and then he notified us that he didn't care to attend this semester. Ramsay MacDonald was our only friend in England; now he is "on the dole." When Uncle Andy Mellon—the missing link between finance and government — pulled up one billion lame, that was a shock. We knew our financial "giants" had failed to giant, we knew our laws had crumbled, we knew the weather was against us! but to have Lindy keep a reception committee waiting one month that was our last straw.

Yours, WILL.

Workhouse Space Sought For Winter Crowds

The Allegheny County Workhouse will be overcrowded this winter, it was predicted by Supt. R. H. Braun yesterday. He said:

"Due to the present business conditions, we are making preparations and anticipating a larger crowd.

"I am going to ask the County Commissioners for a fund, and plans will be drawn shortly for larger quarters for the inmates."

Although the cell capacity of the institution is 1,302, the present population is 1,343 inmates. The balance is taken care of in the dormitory, but the warden explained that he will ask for space to accommodate 1,500.

The dormitory is arranged like a hospital ward with comfortable quarters, and we are safeguarding the inmates and the institution, Braun said.

The women's department will not be affected, he explained, as the present population in that branch is 73, with room for 150.

The workhouse has 32 vacant cells being kept in readiness for court cases, the superintendent explained.

Young Pastor Missing, Police Launch Search

Search was being made by police today for the Rev. Ladislaus Egry, 26, pastor of the Hungarian Reformed Church, at Hazelwood and Johnston avenues. His disappearance was reported to police last night.

Mr. Egry, who has been pastor of the church for two years, was described as 5 feet 6 inches tall, weighing 119 pounds and having dark hair. He was wearing a gray suit and was without a hat.

NEW AUTO GEAR BARRED IN TEST

HARRISBURG, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Benjamin G. Eynon, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, issued an order requiring applicants for operators' licenses whose automobiles are equipped with "free wheeling" to demonstrate their ability to use the conventional gear shift mechanism when taking their driving examination.

He said that a number of new car owners are learning to drive only with "free wheeling" and he said that they should learn to use the conventional gear mechanism. He said:

"Our examiners report that the majority of applicants having automobiles equipped with 'free wheeling' insist on using it when taking the examination for operators' licenses. In doing this they do not use the clutch when shifting from second to high gear, or vice versa.

"The Department of Revenue does not consider this a fair demonstration of the applicant's ability to operate a motor vehicle."

Diver Hunts Cash Books, Not Dodge Necklace

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—The "great pearl necklace mystery" went a-glimmering with finality when a diver, reported to have been searching the Chicago River bottom for an $800,000 string of jewels, said he was looking for cash books and business ledgers instead.

John Carroll's diving activities were taken for a time as credence for a report that Mrs. Hugh Dillman, wealthy widow of Horace Dodge, automobile manufacturer, had accidently dropped into the river jewels formerly owned by the Russian crown.

but how are they made? . . . where? . . . by whom? You have a right to know.

WHEN a substitute claims to be just like Kotex, ask where it is made. How. By whom.

You will find the claim "like Kotex" usually means the pad merely looks like Kotex. That's not enough when health is involved, as it is in your choice of sanitary protection. Demand the hygienic of Kotex. The absolute purity of Kotex.

There's one way to be sure. Get genuine Kotex . . . accept no substitute of whose makers you know nothing. Kotex is the world's standard. Hospitals used over ten million pads last year. It is made with hospital care and cleanliness.

Kotex stays soft for hours. Shaped to fit. Adjustable. May be worn on either side with safety. Disposable, of course.

DISABLED VETS HONOR GUESTS AT PICNIC

Tribute for Civil War Men Also Arranged for Outing At Kennywood Saturday

Every Civil War veteran of the Pittsburgh district has been extended an invitation along with the disabled veterans now in local hospitals to attend as guests of honor the twelfth annual reunion of American war veterans at Kennywood Park on Saturday under auspices of the Sun-Telegraph.

Committee workers under General Chairman John Bingham and Vice Chairman Harry S. Hall will greet each Civil War veteran entering the park and present a ticket to be dinner guest of the paper at 6 o'clock. The disabled veterans will be brought from hospital in special cars and likewise will be guests at the dinner.

20 ORGANIZATIONS JOIN

The picnic committee has extended invitations to more than 20 veterans' organizations to join in the annual outing that brings together buddies of all wars, from the Civil War to the World War. Record attendance is predicted.

Free amusements and special entertainment are being arranged. Amusement tickets will be given to every veteran as he registers upon entering the park. While it is urged that veterans wear their overseas caps, tickets will be issued upon presentation of membership cards in service men's organizations, service buttons or other evidence of war service.

SALVATION ARMY 'EATS'

Among special features arranged by the Sun-Telegraph will be the free distribution of doughnuts and coffee by Salvation Army lassies. Other features will be announced daily in the Sun-Telegraph.

Chairman Bingham today stressed that the invitations to veterans' groups included Red Cross nurses and all workers who saw war service for other organizations.

Indians Oppose Child Marriage Ban

SIMLA, India, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Renewed attempts to abolish the Sarda child marriage restraint act, forbidding marriage to children below the age of 14, were made today by Indian legislators.

The authors of three new bills offered in the Assembly contend that the Sarda act constitutes an invasion of sacred religious customs of the Hindus, reaching back thousands of years, and allowing children to be betrothed in marriage, even in infancy.

Watermelon Theft Leads to Killing

JOPLIN, Mo., Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Homer Fickland, 19, was slain by a rifle bullet in Frank Coupland's watermelon patch at Central City, and Coupland, 66, surrendered to Joplin authorities.

Officers quoted Coupland as saying he discovered Fickland and a companion stealing watermelons, and he fired, but had intended shooting over Fickland's head. The bullet penetrated the victim's heart.

CORN MISERY ENDED—THIS SAFE WAY

When corns are stabbing your nerves with pain, there is always a temptation to try some harsh rapid-fire "cure" or risk infection from paring.

Don't run this chance. You don't need to. For 31 years millions have proved that there is a safe treatment for corns, as mild and gentle as it is sure in its results. These happy owners of easy feet go to the druggists and ask for Blue-jay the minute they discover a corn.

The famous Blue-jay corn plaster is designed, first, to cushion and relieve the pressure that causes the pain. Then, while you go comfortably about your work or play, the mild Blue-jay medication is softening and releasing the corn.

WHEAT BARTER HITS ARGENTINA

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—(INS.)—America's hope for closer commercial relations with Latin America appeared jeopardized today as a result of the Farm Board's recent trade of 25,000,000 bushels of wheat for 1,050,000 bags of Brazil coffee. Protest from Argentina seemed imminent, as the barter of the board has completely closed Argentina's market for her wheat in Brazil.

Department of Commerce figures reveal that the amount of wheat Argentina sells annually to her northern neighbor is approximately 25,000,000 bushels—the same amount the Farm Board will deliver to Brazil during a year.

Dr. Felipe A. Espil, the new Argentine ambassador, refused to discuss what action, if any, his government would direct, but in Latin American diplomatic circles it was believed a strenuous protest would be made.

Pastor Away, Unites Pair by Telephone

WELLSVILLE, O., Aug. 25.—A marriage ceremony by long distance telephone was performed here by the Rev. F. G. Hjerpe, pastor of the Immanuel Presbyterian Church, Cincinnati, when he pronounced the words that united one of his parishoners, John Withrow, and his bride, in a Cincinnati home. A loud speaker permitted guests to hear the minister's voice.

Mother of 9 Dies, 12 Hurt in Blast

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—(INS.)—A mother of nine children, Mrs. Lena Glick, 48, was killed and 12 persons were injured in a terrific explosion that wrecked a three-story brick building and tossed debris on the cottage next door. Firemen searched the ruins today for more bodies, but a report that a dozen members of two Negro families were missing was denied.

A broken gas main was blamed.

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN
Radio Editor

When times get dull around the networks production men huddle in a corner, pose their index fingers meditatively on the brow and—Eureka!—the idea strikes them that nothing would liven up things like a little boom, boom. WAR . . . was all so easy to start and end in the studio that no one ever feels ashamed at the prospect of a production of man's inhumanity to man. Hence a Class A battle now and then. Darrell V. Martin excepted, tonight when we have two Class A battles . . . on WCAE at 9 o'clock. D. Thomas Curtin, famous war correspondent presents the first in a series of thrillers called When Shakes Rat High . . . Curtin obtained the background for his series when he slipped into Germany during hostilities and produced reams of "copy" while on the march with armies of the Central Powers and the Allies . . . the cast in this playlet is enough to recommend it . . . Agnes Moorehead, star of "Silver Flute" and "The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes," assumes the feminine lead . . . others in the play are William Shelley, Jack McBride, T. Daniel Frawley and Charles Warburton . . . KDKA has the second battle of the evening at 9:30 . . . it is the destruction of the Spanish armada by the English fleet, first in a series of new broadcasts to be known as "Danger Lines in History" . . . William Shelley will be the veteran of these two battles . . . After taking part in the World War episode over WCAE at 9 o'clock he will have just about one minute to dash into another studio for the Spanish armada fracas on KDKA at 9:30.

Question a Day:

When an interview program is conducted from two cities like the recent one between Grantland Rice and Tris Speaker, how do the speakers know when they are on the air? W. T. H., Mt. Lebanon.

Answer—A small control board with red and blue signal lights is placed alongside each speaker. When Rice in New York asked Speaker in Chicago a question, he pressed a button as soon as he was through speaking. This notified Speaker that it was time for him to talk. When Speaker had finished, he pressed a button notifying Rice that he had answered. Hundreds of operations would be required in a 15-minute interview of this kind.

The millenium has come! The sponsor of "Melody Moments" on NBC-WCAE Wednesday nights has decided to eliminate commercial announcements beginning September 2 . . . instead of the usual page and a half of typewritten comments the announcer will read merely a four line statement calling attention of listeners to his newspaper advertisements . . . there's a smart man!

Bing Crosby's CBS radio schedule starts next Monday night at 11 and every night thereafter but Sunday at the same hour . . .

Participants in the 6 o'clock feature on KDKA tonight are blind . . . they have learned to play "by ear" and by reading music from braille . . .

Weber and Fields have been added to the Tuesday and Thursday night broadcasts of B. A. Rolfe's Orchestra, as well as Saturday night . . .

The tire program that featured Vaughn de Leath and Franklyn Baur is due back on the red network Monday, September 7 . . .

Arrival of Old Ironsides—preserved through the contribution of thousands of pennies by school children—in New York Harbor Saturday is to be described over NBC and CBS . . .

The Red Arrow Quartet is no more and are those hard-working singers depressed? It's a shame to break up that sweet harmony!

Graham McNamee Speaking

You hear lots of stories about the mike fright of famous concert and opera stars, and others of the very type who should be most accustomed to public performance.

But Jascha Heifetz, the great violinist, completely forgot the microphone when he made his radio debut!

It was pretty to watch him, completely absorbed in the music and utterly oblivious not only to the mike, but also to the chosen few who witnessed the performance in the studio.

Among the special guests was Heifetz' wife, Florence Vidor, the motion picture star. She was specially delighted afterwards, when he compared playing before a microphone to acting in front of a camera.

"I forgot the microphone completely," he said, "and I'm glad that I did. You can't act well before a movie camera if you're obsessed with thoughts of the camera, and that holds just as true for playing the violin before a microphone."

But he did admit that a radio debut is more severe than a New York concert premiere. "There are many factors that cause this," he explained, "and not the least of them is the tremendous size of the unseen audience you're playing for. Don't think I didn't feel it was a momentous occasion.

For the most part Heifetz stood about five feet away from the mike, and twisted his body as he played. Sometimes he swayed completely around, so that his back was turned to the delicate instrument. Meanwhile, the corridors outside the studio and every reception room at NBC headquarters, where the music could be heard, were packed with many of the same concertgoers who have thrilled to his many concerts in Carnegie Hall.

They'll be proud to know that he wasn't frightened.

CORN ROAST AT PARK

Outlook Alliance Plans Reunion of Members Remaining in City

With such a paucity of club happenings as the August calendar reveals, every event takes on an unusual importance and, even with many members out of town, the attendance is apt to be exceptionally good.

Mrs. William A. Thompson, new chairman of the ways and means committee of the Outlook Alliance, has planned a corn roast for Friday which will probably bring together all members of the Alliance who are in town at that time. It is to be held at Ross Grove, North Park, from 6 until 7.30 o'clock.

Mrs. E. B. Heyser, new president of the Alliance, will be present to welcome the guests.

* * *

These are the days when little else than travel news filters into the club department and therefore travel news becomes of the greatest importance. It is interesting, however, to hear where one's various club acquaintances are spending their lazy summer days.

Club Travelers

Colloquium's members have been on the go all season. Miss Nita Butler, as has been recorded here before, is in Italy with an excavating expedition from the University of Michigan. Mrs. Clark George has spent the entire summer at her summer home on the east shore of Chesapeake Bay, and Mrs. H. F. Wherrett is summering on the west coast after returning from abroad.

Mrs. R. O. Fulton, another member, and her husband, will take their son, R. O. Fulton, Jr., back to Princeton, and then Mr. and Mrs. Fulton will tour New England.

Mrs. John D. Houston is with her family at Point Chautauqua for the summer, and Mrs. R. E. Logan is spending the summer abroad. Mrs. E. C. Chalfant is at Georgian Bay for August, and Mrs. C. B. McAboy is in the Adirondacks. The West has claimed Mrs. Clara McCombs. Mrs. E. A. Nisbet and Mrs. William Gates have chosen to spend their vacation months touring. Mrs. Clarence Wolff has a cottage on Lake Erie, and Mrs. William S. Van Dyke has just returned from Europe.

A corn roast will be held by Oakland Chapter No. 369, Order of the Eastern Star, at Bear Pit cabin, Riverview Park, tomorrow evening. Supper will be served from 5 until 8 o'clock. Miss Loretta Wilde is worthy matron of the chapter.

BLACK AND WHITE DECREED FINEST COLOR COMBINATION

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Aug. 25.—One cannot emphasize too strongly in the black and white of cold print the importance of black and white as a color combination for the finest frocks. Every house is showing models using this alliance in all sorts of clever combinations and ideas. Sometimes the white is quite obvious and forms the bodice or bodice top. Then again it is very often seen in all sorts of soft and original little touches and accents that lend a demure softness and youth to any wearer. It matters not how much color is stressed at a particular collection, there is always a buzz and murmur when a black and white makes its appearance. And usually these models are quickly sold to both private and professional buyers. Give a woman a cleverly made frock of black with white and she is prepared to face any person, occasion or emergency which can not always be said about any other color or color combination.

* * *

SHOWN TODAY are sketches of two lovely frocks of black with white. The afternoon frock is by Worth, who has made it of heavy black crepe de chine with the collar, belt, undersleeves and encrusted flower of hand-drawn white organdie. The flaring flounce, forming the over skirt, is set on at the top in wide scallops. Quite a distinct width is given to the oversleeves at the elbow and they are laid in three darts there to give a rounding line.

* * *

BLACK MOUSSELINE DE SOIE makes the major part of the charming dinner frock. It was worn by Princess Jean Louis de Faucigny at Florence's the other night. The yoke, butterfly sleeves and skirt border are of crisp white silk organdie. Stitched down folds hold in the fullness of the wide skirt over the hips. This model has had a success and is one of Lelong's best models of late.

Girl Scouts Break Few Camp Dishes

According to the current issue of the Girl Scout Bulletin, no dishes broken and only 14 nicked or cracked in three summers of camping in the mountains of Virginia is the proud record of the Girl Scouts of Camp May Flather, at Harrisonburg, Va.

With an average of 200 Girl Scouts and staff members for eight weeks each summer, and including the parents and friends who visit them, over 5,000 people have used the same dishes now during the three years.

According to Miss Dorothy Greene, director of the Washington Girl Scouts and of Camp May Flather, the explanation of this phenomenon lies in the system used by the girls.

The tables in the dining room at camp are made with a shelf below the surface, where the dishes are kept between meals.

During the meal each dish is slipped back on the shelf just as soon as the course calling for it is finished. Later, when dish-washing time comes, instead of piling all of the used plates and saucers and dessert dishes upon a tray and carrying them out to a pantry or kitchen, the dish-pans are carried in to the table. The particular group of girls doing kitchen "capers" washes everything but the cups, water tumblers and silver right at the table. These exceptions are taken out to the kitchen to be washed and sterilized. The dishes that have been washed and dried at the table are put back again on the shelf, where they are ready for the next meal.

World Code Strides Made by Women

Three great strides toward an equal world code of nationality have been made in the past month, according to a statement issued by the National Woman's Party of the United States from Alva Belmont House, national headquarters of the party in Washington.

Uncompromising support of equal nationality has been given in that period by the Institute of International Law; by the government of the United States, and by women themselves through the consultative committee of women created by the League of Nations to submit recommendations for a world law on the nationality of women.

Miss Alice Paul and Miss Doris Stevens, representing the Inter-American Commission of Women, have taken a leading part in the proceedings of the consultative committee and in the events leading up to its creation.

BUCS, ROBINS CLASH TWICE

Sport Comment

By JAMES J. LONG

New Buc Pilot Likely. To Reconstruct Club. No More Mathewsons. Another Retzlaff Test. Plaid Gridders Back. Schnupp Town Manager.

SIGNS POINT TO DISMISSAL OF ENS

THOUGH FOR THE present, President Barney Dreyfuss declines to commit himself publicly, and says that the Pirate managerial question for 1932 is a matter not be discussed before the close of the 1931 season, there is something in the air around Buccaneer headquarters that indicates unmistakably Jewel Ens is serving his final year as pilot of the Pittsburgh baseball club. It is unlikely that any official statement will be forthcoming for some time, but right now a fan putting two and two together gets the impression that a change of skippers is part of wholesale reconstruction plans being shaped for next season.

Jewel Ens

Friends of Ens fear that the dismal showing of the Rovers on the eastern trip which ends today has just about killed Jewel's last remaining chance of being retained. Had the Bucs made the strong finish of which their midsummer brace gave promise, the owners, in fairness, could hardly have refused Ens another contract, but in view of the loss of 11 out of 16 games on the tour up to today, they are believed to have abandoned any notion they may have entertained of starting a new season with the same leader.

ACCORDING TO RUMORS that are going the rounds, it isn't only the club's disappointing showing for the year in the matter of games won and lost that has caused Ens to lose favor with the powers that be. It is admitted by the fans in general that Jewel has been the victim of a lot of tough luck and has been handicapped by injuries and other bad breaks that would have hampered any manager.

But the story goes that his managerial policy at other times has not been wholly satisfactory to the owners; that they contend he has not changed his style of play to meet the altered conditions brought about by the less lively ball, and that many games have been lost through adhering to 1930 customs and failing to play for one run instead of the once popular "big inning."

THE MANNER IN which Ens has maneuvered his right and left-handed hitters to meet the two kinds of pitching is another detail that has not won the approval of the front office, it is said, and one that will weigh against him when the managerial matter for 1932 is taken up.

In short, the club officials are said to hold that, while the team undeniably had its defects, it presented enough natural strength during the greater part of the season to have obtained better results.

AT THAT, THOUGH contending that the club was capable of better things than it accomplished this year, the owners, it is understood, are far from being satisfied with the machine as it stands and intend to shake it up from top to bottom. Reconstruction along broad lines is planned, and the winter is likely to witness the consummation of more than one deal that will bring new material to Pittsburgh and send some of the present Pirates elsewhere. Ens' record as manager here shows just a shade better than an even break. Since he took charge of the club on August 27, 1929, following the resignation of Donie Bush, the Bucs have won 157 games and lost 154.

Christy Mathewson

IN THESE DAYS of undependable Giant pitching, a year in which his staff has gone to pieces every time the club had a chance to improve its position, John McGraw says he'd give his right eye to have another pitcher like the immortal Christy Mathewson.

But the Giant skipper adds that he realizes there is no chance of his ever succeeding in picking up Matty's equal at any price. Pitchers of that caliber are not to be found anywhere. They don't exist. "They don't make pitchers like Big Six any more," McGraw remarked, sadly. "I've never seen his equal in either league."

MATHEWSON'S RECORD IS a subject of even greater interest than usual right now in view of the impressive figures that Grove is piling up. In 16 years of National League service, Matty won 372 games against 175 defeats, an average of better than 23 victories per season. His total of 37 triumphs in 1908 still stands as the modern National League record for number of games won in a season.

In three straight years, aside from 1908, Christy won 30 games or more per season, a record equaled only by Grover Alexander. In 13 of the 16 years of his career he won 20 or more games per season. He pitched two no-hit games. In 4,712 innings pitched he struck out 2,290 batters, gave 771 bases on balls and allowed 4,291 hits. He won seven out of 11 world series games, and in the 1905 series against the A's he won three games without being scored on, permitting only one man to get as far as third base in 27 innings.

CHARLEY RETZLAFF'S 10-round bout in New York tonight with Joe Sekyra, of Dayton, O., is being billed as the hardest eastern test of the Duluth heavyweight, but it will not be surprising if Retzlaff comes through again successfully, just as he did in his first two Gotham engagements with Ralph Ficucello and Mateo Oso. Sekyra is a better boxer than either Ficucello or Oso, but has never lived up to the promise he showed a couple of years ago.

CARNEGIE TECH'S football prospects for last season received a severe blow on the eve of the opening, when five of the most valuable members of the squad were declared ineligible because of scholastic deficiencies. Four of them were tackles.

The development robbed the squad of practically all of its reserve strength in the tackle division, Howard Stauffer, Frank Flizack, Kay Burns and Al Myslenski being among those lost. The other casualty was Elmer Vorderburg, fullback and halfback.

THE QUINTET WAS required to withdraw from all athletics for one year, but constant application has resulted in the reinstatement of four of the men, and, with the exception of Flizack, all will return to the squad when fall practice opens on September 1.

Leonard Schnupp

Stauffer will be particularly welcome, as he had previous varsity experience and will serve well to fill one of the vacancies caused by the departure of Highberger and Schnupp, last year's regular tackles, both of whom have finished their careers. Vorderburg, a Toledo boy, has a good chance to break into the Tartan backfield as a regular. He started for the 1929 plebes.

LEONARD SCHNUPP, huge Carnegie tackle for three years, who was reputed to have the largest pair of hands in American football, recently was named acting borough manager of Jeannette. Schnupp was graduated from Carnegie last June, and was rated an exceptionally brilliant student in the department of building construction. More mature than the average college student, the big fellow was recognized all during his course of study as one of the ablest undergraduates. Despite the general business depression, numerous engineering opportunities were opened to him upon graduation. Schnupp's home is in Jeannette and his friends will be pleased to learn that he stands so well in his own town.

LAMPUS MEETS ACKERMAN IN TECH FINAL

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Quarter-final and semi-final competition will feature today's program of the Western Pennsylvania junior and boys' championship net tourney on the clay courts of Carnegie Tech. Under the spirited guidance of Committeeman Jack Lauler, an original field of 28 juniors was reduced yesterday to nine, while the entry of 24 boys, by process of continual elimination, cut itself to a total of 10.

Only one reversal of the dope occurred to mar the accuracy of the seeding. Irwin Solow, runner-up in the recent Pittsburgh Center Boys' event and seeded third in the same division in the current milling, having suffered second round downfall at the hands of Ed Carson, young brother of the noted Greensburg feminine star, Helen Carson, 6-2, 6-4.

MATHIESON WINS

The remainder of the boys' select group, Center Champion Harold Mathieson, of Koppel, and Ralph Bald and Bernard Greenberg, of Pittsburgh, breezed to the bracket of eight.

Three of the four seeded juniors copped verdicts. Harry Ackerman, Mt. Lebanon High School luminary, and Bud Leyda, Bellevue ace, annexing in short order and Nick Mackov, Munhall driver, trimming Harold Hatch, of Rockwood, after torrid fray, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2, and Paul Elliott, Wilkinsburger, and former Center boys' premier, has still to cop a place in the quarter-final frame. Paul Critchlow, of Mercersburg Academy, was another to flash keen form to keep abreast of the leaders.

Round-of-eight combats are slated for the Tartan lot at 10:00 o'clock this morning, with semi-finals following at 1:00 p. m.

In the semi-final round of the Carnegie Tech Tennis Club tourney yesterday, Bob Lampus upset the dope by defeating Ben Bloom, of Pitt, 8-6, 6-3, 7-5, to gain the final round with Henry Ackerman. Ackerman and Lampus will clash on the Tech courts this evening for the title.

ACKERMAN VICTOR

Ackerman gained the title round by disposing of Albert Lazar, 6-4, 7-5, 3-6 and 6-3. In a quarter-final tussle, Lazar had eliminated D. T. Hawthorne, 6-3, 6-3.

The winner of the final match will be presented the championship trophy by Max Hannum, Carnegie Tech sport publicity director, acting in the absence of Graduate Manager Buddy Overend.

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 25.—(AP.)—The thirty-second annual grand American championship and handicap tournament, the "world series" of trapshooting, got under way at the permanent home of the Amateur Trapshooting Association here yesterday with 508 marksmen, the third largest opening day crowd in the history of the classic, competing for the class championship of North America.

Crack shots of the country competed for the Class AA title with honors going to Carl Maust, of Lincoln Park, Mich., who shattered 199 out of a possible 200 targets. Monte E. De Wise, of Hamilton, Ind., champion of his state, and J. H. Wantling, of New York, tied for second place with 198. In the shootoff De Wise won by breaking 75 straight targets while Wantling missed two and had to be content with third place.

Fred Harlow, of Newark, O., Grand American champion in 1908, won the class A championship with a score of 199 out of 200. He was tied by C. B. Stickley, of Vaucluse, Va., but in the shoot-off Harlow shattered 24 out of a possible 25 targets while Stickley scored 23.

The class B title went to Clarence F. Booher, of Dayton, O., with a score of 196.

Steve Crothers, of Chestnut Hills; John D. Fauntain, Philadelphia, and George Wright, Conneaut, were the only Pennsylvanians to do anything in the first day's shooting. They broke 50 straight targets to qualify for the expert marksmanship medals.

PIRATES CLOSE EASTERN TOUR TODAY

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—The Pirates today were listed to stage their seventh and last doubleheader of the current invasion of the East, the scene to be in Flatbush, where on Sunday they dropped a couple of bitter games to Uncle Robbie's flock.

The dual scrap with the Robins will wind up the seaboard invasion, a jaunt that has been anything but successful. Five victories and 11 setbacks was the way the Pittsburgh card stood this morning as they made ready for their last showing.

DUAL BILLS TOUGH

The doubleheader epidemic was hard on the Freebooters, they losing two of these bargain days programs with no sugar-coated triumph to show on the credit side of the ledger. The Quakers plastered them with a two-way defeat and this dose was repeated by Uncle Robbie's crew.

Manager Ens stated this morning he had three righthanders ready for the Robins. But he would not know his selections definitely until Uncle Robbie makes a move. Brame, Kremer and Meine are all set to go, and the tall Kentuckian will get the slip if the enemy trots out a righthander in the first battle. If not, Kremer or Meine will operate on the slab. Robbie has Clarke, Moore and Heimach available, the first and last named being lefthanders.

Secretary Sam Watters looks for a big time in Wilkes-Barre tomorrow, for on that occasion the Pirates will disport themselves for the edification of Adam Comorosky's boosters and New York-Pennsylvania League fans in general. The Wilkes-Barre club is managed by Mike McNally, former star infielder of the New York Yankees. Reports from the hard coal district augur well for a big turnout.

MEET CUBS HERE

The first-string pitchers of the Pirate staff will leave for Pittsburgh tonight. They will have a day of rest in Pittsburgh tomorrow, while the main body of the club is barnstorming. The club is due to reach Pittsburgh early Thursday morning in plenty of time to get ready for a doubleheader with the Cubs. The dual bill will mark the last appearance of the Bruins in Pittsburgh this year.

Many of the Pirates were guests of the Giants and Cubs yesterday as these higher-up clubs split a doubleheader at the Polo Grounds.

Says Nick Altrock

(Baseball's Comedian)

DETROIT, Aug. 25.—I see Connie Mack doesn't yet concede his Athletics have snatched the pennant. I admit it's nice to be overcautious, but that's the first time I knew that Cornelius McGillicuddy was a Scotch name.

Nick Altrock

Connie doesn't believe he's got the pennant sewed up—then he's still afraid of our Washington club. I'll use that argument on Griff for a raise.

It's true that nothing is certain in baseball, but if Connie acted the same way in ordinary life he'd require $6,000,000 of Andy Mellon's treasury certificates in his pocket to stop him from taking the poor debtor's oath. At that, if the A's are destined to win another pennant there isn't a finer gentleman we'd like to lose to than Connie Mack.

ACTION IN BOWL BATTLE

REFEREE RED ROBINSON

VIDAL GREGORIO

JIMMY THOMAS

THOMAS LOSES TO GREGORIO AT BOWL

By JAMES MILLER

Two fights in four nights proved too much of a strain for little Jimmy Thomas, Hill district Negro, last Friday night at Erie he scored a technical knockout over Babe Face Mathison of Buffalo. Last night at Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, he tired after getting away to a fine start and lost the decision in 10 rounds to Vidal Gregorio, of Spain, a capable bantamweight.

Jackie Rodgers originally was slated to oppose Gregorio. He developed a lame arm and pulled out. Willie Davies then was secured as the Spaniard's opponent, but he too was forced to give up the scrap due to illness and Thomas was signed.

JIMMY STARTS WELL

Thomas, with his left jab working like a piston and his right finding the chin with plenty of gusto, started great by winning the first two rounds, losing the next, and taking the fourth and the sixth, but with fights coming in a bunch like they have for Thomas, it was a little tough for the W-W (Wits and Whiter) entry.

Gregorio, a fast-moving ringman, with the experience of being on top with most of the big names in the class, used a left hook to good advantage throughout, and in the ninth round had Thomas all but out. In the last round he came on and tried to put a Pullman (a sleeper) on the local Negro, but Thomas weaved and bobbed his way out of danger. Once in the ninth round, when Gregorio caught Jimmy on the chin with a left, he slipped to the bottom ropes, but was up instantly.

Gornick did most of the clean and hard punching with the blond Collins doing a little fighting in spurts, which consisted of body punching, while Gornick's rights rained off his face aplenty. Referee Al Grayber cast his vote for Gornick, but it did not count. After the bout the Commission doctor said that Marty would be out of action for two months.

BRANNON FOULS KELLY

The first fight to end in a foul hereabouts in a little better than two years popped up when Eddie Brannon, Negro lightweight, of the Hill, fouled Jimmy Kelly, hard-hitting southpaw, of Dayton, O., in the fourth round of their scheduled eight-rounder. Kelly and Brannon met at the Moose Temple last winter, Brannon stopping Kelly.

A good-sized crowd saw the well-balanced card. Tuffy Griffiths, big-time heavyweight, of Chicago, and Emmett Rocco, of Ellwood City, a favorite with the local fans, were announced as next week's principals.

Al Grayber and Red Robinson alternated as referees, and Frank Hogan and Jock Simco were the judges. Tommy Grant and Norman Borland were the timers. Ray Eberle was the announcer, and Dr. Ralph Shanor was the Commission physician.

Carl Reynolds, Ben Chapman Race Today

Chapman, who got Babe Ruth out of the barrel several weeks ago after the Babe had lost several wagers on other Yankee players in sprint races, and Reynolds, whom the White Sox believe is the fastest man in the American League, yesterday signed an agreement for Secretary Harry Grabiner, of the Sox, to meet just before today's game at Comiskey Park.

Ruth lost money betting on other Yanks but backed Chapman to beat Allen (Dusty) Cooke, until then regarded as the fastest man on the Yankee squad, and came away with a profit.

MEN'S TITLE GOLF EVENT ARRANGED

The men's city golf championship tournament will get under way over the Schenley Park municipal links Tuesday, September 1, and continue through September 4, according to an announcement made yesterday by John Jay Burke.

The field will qualify for the match play competition the opening day, with the first and second rounds booked for the second day. The finals will be played on Friday.

Carl Kauffmann, who has won the city title five out of the last six years, will seek to defend his title with players of the caliber of Carl Lundeen, Francis Lally, Harry Ramsay, Walter Phillips, Andy Szwedka, Joe Platt, Tom Barr, Dick Wessell and Mike Galdo among opponents most to be feared.

In a mixed foursome competition over the Schenley links yesterday, Gene Kelleher and Johnny Pasikowski led the field with 80-11-69. Mrs. O. L. Long and Art Sekay, Pitt football player, were second with 80-10-70. Other scores follow:

RAIN PREVENTS POLOISTS CARD BENEFIT GAME

Announcement was made today that arrangements had been completed by the Pittsburgh Polo Club to bring to Pittsburgh the River Ridge Riding and Polo Club of Columbus, O., for two games to be played September 5 and on Labor Day, September 7. This Saturday the Pittsburgh polo[illegible] will go to Lexington, Ky., to play the Iroquois Polo Club.

The Lexington players were defeated here two weeks ago and last week were beaten by the Columbus polo[illegible], so that the game on September 5 holds added interest for polo fans in this district.

Believing that the September 5 game with the Columbus squad will draw a record crowd, the members of the Pittsburgh Polo Club last night voted to make the match a benefit for the Little Sisters of the Poor Home for the Aged.

Arrangements are also progressing for the special car which will carry the fans to Lexington on Saturday for the meet with the Iroquois team.

Between showers several sets of teams were assigned courts but only two had a chance to get going before another downpour washed all into the clubhouse.

CITY LEAGUE RIVALS BATTLE TODAY

SANDLOT GAMES TODAY

WEST PENN LEAGUE

STEEL CITY LEAGUE

MINOR LEAGUE
Mails at Andrews.
Belleaire at J. J. Mills.

By TOM BIRKS

With two outstanding games on the North Side, the City League will hold the spotlight this evening on the local sandlots. The games bring both of the second half contenders into action, Dormont clashing with the North Side Bucks at Wilson field and Books faring the Civics at the Salt Works.

It seems impossible to figure the Bucks beating Dormont. The South Hills aggregation should win easily. But Book will meet stern opposition in the Civics, who are liable to stop any club in the league.

RIECKS FACE RELIANCE

In the C. & I. League, Riecks and Reliance will tangle at Langley Field to break the deadlock that exists for the league lead. There is little doubt that Eddie Imhoff will work for the Stuhlfire aggregation, and Reliance will counter either with Dutch Spencer or Bill Gormley.

Bobby Beitel pitched his best game of the season last evening against Reliance. His fast ball worked to perfection, but he got away to a bad start when Reliance got three runs. This game is important. Both clubs have dropped one game, having beaten each other, so there is more than a chance that the winner of tonight's game will win the second half title.

Two games will feature the West Penn League. The leading Linwood club has a tough battle in Turtle Creek Community. Manager Dutch Winters has the boys fighting hard.

MARTINS MEET SAINTS

The other game in the loop finds the Martin club, of Garfield, clashing with the St. Joachim nine at Magee Field. Young Gannon, son of Red Gannon, popular sandlot official, pitched the game for the Martins against the Homestead Aces. Errors beat him, 2 to 1.

Two games in the Steel City finds the Snee club hooking up with the Pasquale club, of Oakland. This is a tough assignment for the Carrick boys, Pasquale having one of the best teams in the class. The O'Malleys go to Mifflin in the same loop.

The Homestead Grays will meet a team of Beaver County League all-stars in Beaver that evening.

O'KELLY LOSES TO GRIFFITHS

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Tuffy Griffiths, Sioux City (Ia.) heavyweight, earned a 10-round decision over Con O'Kelly, rugged Boston Irishman with a concrete chin, in a 10-round battle in the White City open air arena last night.

Jackie Davis, Springfield, Ill., outscored Steve O'Malley, Bellaire, O., in four rounds at 135 pounds.

MANDELL BEATEN

THOMAS NINE BEATS BOOKS

J. L. Thomas, behind fine pitching on the part of Callahan, checked the Book nine in the City League last evening winning 5 to 0. Callahan kept the seven hits he permitted well scattered. In a second loop fray, Homewood walloped N. S. Bucks 11-7.

In the Central League Colliers blanked the McGraths 2-0. Edgewood won over Immaculate Heart 4-2 in the Greater Pittsburgh circuit and in the Steel City Snee nosed out the O'Malleys 4-3.

Reliance defeated Hornes in a well-played C. and I. loop fracas, 3 to 2.

The Homestead Grays crushed Franklin 14-3 in an independent tussle while the Crawfords, who blanked J. L. Thomas Sunday 9-0, trimmed Dormont another City League nine, by the same count.

Cards, A's Best Series Bets—Connie

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Connie Mack, here with his pennant-bound Philadelphia Athletics, was interviewed yesterday. The interviewer's first question, of course, was about the outcome of the World Series.

"Well," he replied, "I cannot be sure, but this I will tell you. Two teams have an excellent chance—my club and the Cardinals."

BOJARSKI AFTER 42ND WIN

Although the name, Frankie Bojarski, does not sound like a fighting one, the youth with that tag is one of the hardest hitting lightweights in the division.

Bojarski, who hails from Erie, meets Charley Baxter, formerly of Columbus, O., and now of McKees Rocks, in the main bout at Hickey Park, Millvale, Thursday night.

Both lads are in great shape for their coming encounter and the numerous requests for tickets indicates another fine turnout of fans at the Millvale Bowl.

BRITISH STARS COP DOUBLES

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Great Britain's crack combination of Betty Nuthall and Mrs. Eileen Bennett Whittingstall yesterday salvaged doubles honors in the forty-fourth annual women's tennis tournament at Forest Hills.

The British pair, relying on a concerted net attack, defeated Helen Jacobs, of Berkeley, Cal., and Dorothy Round, of England, 6-2, 6-4, in the final match postponed from Sunday at the request of Miss Round. Concentrating on their countrywoman, the winners broke through Miss Round's service four times in the two sets and forced her into repeated errors.

The new championship team succeeds that of Miss Nuthall and Sarah Palfrey, of Sharon, Mass., which won the title a year ago. Mrs. Whittingstall was defeated in the singles final by Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, of San Francisco.

It was the inability of Miss Round to hold her service and to get her returns past her opponents that permitted the Nuthall-Whittingstall combination to win in the quick time of 35 minutes today. Miss Jacobs played a strong game, especially at the net, but she could not hold the fort in the face of her teammate's lapses.

WOMEN'S CHAMP ADVANCES

HIGHLAND PARK, Ill., Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Mrs. George Tyson, of Kansas City, opened defense of her Western Women's golf championship today by romping to a 7-and-6 first round conquest over Mary Elizabeth Ford, young Kansas City star.

Mrs. Tyson breezed around the championship Exmoor Country Club layout three shots under par for the 12 holes she was forced to travel and didn't lose a hole. She gained a five-up lead at nine and then ripped off three successive birdies to end the uneven struggle.

Mrs. Leona Pressler, of San Gabriel, Cal., twice former champion and tournament medalist, breezed into the second round by dropping Mrs. A. E. Sheill, Chicago, 6 and 4. Mrs. Pressler started out shakily with a pair of sixes to go one down, but steadied. She was one over par for the distance.

Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City, 1929 champion, sailed into the second round with a 4-and-3 victory over Mrs. Lee Mida, of Chicago. Mrs. Hill was only two shots over par for the 15 holes.

Miss Ann Webster, of Leavenworth, Kan., defeated Jane Weiller in a hard match, 1 up, to become Mrs. Tyson's second-round rival. Miss Webster's medal card for the round was 87, one lower than Miss Weiller's.

Harvey Humphreys, president of the organization, would transport not only the football teams of the two service schools, but the entire student body to Los Angeles for the game.

Can Mr. Ford's Paternalism Be Enforced?

—By B. C. FORBES—

B. C. Forbes

HENRY FORD, I understand, has been severely criticized in Detroit for his attitude towards taking care of the local unemployed, a large number of whom were and are Ford or ex-Ford workers.

Mr. Ford has his own very emphatic ideas about charity of any kind whatsoever. He is an out-and-out believer in self-help.

Edsel Ford, I am told, has not a cold attitude towards Detroit's unemployed and is more inclined to depart from his father towards the very large fund which has been raised to cope with the acute hardship among the enforced idle.

MR. FORD REVEALS once again his conception of the imperative importance of each man casting himself to the utmost to look out and provide for his wants. Mr. Ford has decreed that every married man employed at his Iron Mountain (Mich.) property must raise vegetables. Those who do not comply with the rule will be discharged. It is the unqualified warning he gives.

Married men who haven't already a bit of ground capable of raising vegetables will be supplied with a patch.

MR. FORD'S LATEST brand of dictation to American citizens will unquestionably arouse a storm of discussion. Some will applaud. Many will condemn. If he does carry out his threat to discharge men who neglect to become gardeners, we will hear a lot about it when that time comes.

WHAT DO YOU THINK as to how far an employer is justified in trying to regulate the domestic life of those who work for him?

MANY TIMES when I have travelled extensively over this continent I have found myself mentally condemning the large numbers of farmers and other country folks for not making themselves and their families far more self-supporting.

MY FEELING has been and is—I was brought up in a rural section—that too many country families are too lazy in the matter of self-help. Can anyone argue that all families in a position to do so to their own advantage raise one or more pigs, for example? Again, it is undeniable that enough rural families do not maintain one or two cows to supply their own milk and butter requirements. Take chickens, too. Can even the most ardent champion of our rural inhabitants contend that every family who would be greatly helped by keeping chickens takes the trouble to do so?

ADMITTEDLY, milking cows is not the choicest form of sport—I can speak from personal experience, including the painful memory of having been violently tossed against a stone wall by a vicious bovine kicker. The tending of pigs is not exactly a collar-and-cuff diversion. It calls for some measure of care and thought to maintain properly a flock of chickens.

I doubt whether berry-raising and fruit-cultivation are carried on everywhere that such work would help out family tables and family finances acceptably.

Nor are even the most ordinary varieties of vegetables produced by all families who would be distinctly benefitted thereby. While motoring in France this summer I often commented on how thoroughly every available yard of soil is utilized. On all sides were both vegetable and flower gardens, nearly always tended with painstaking care.

I AM SURE a large number of rural families who are now suffering dire want could have done more than they have done to bring themselves nearer a self-supporting state. Their plight could have been eased not a little had they always exercised enough initiative and energy and enterprise to produce everything possible for their own table. Too many rural folks have been content to jog along in an utterly unenterprising rut.

HENRY FORD'S THEORY about the value of cultivating a vegetable garden is indisputably sound.

But there will be widespread and heated discussion as to whether he should not have sought to influence, to encourage, to persuade rather than to issue peremptory orders to his workers, accompanied by the threat of dismissal if they fail to obey his commands as to how they shall use their spare time.

All of us will watch the outcome of Mr. Ford's paternalistic experiment with keen interest.

Reserve Members' Loans Take Drop

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—The Federal Reserve Board's condition statement as of August 19 shows a decrease for the week of $74,000,000 in loans and investments, $159,000,000 in net demand deposits, $47,000,000 in time deposits, and $30,000,000 in government deposits. Borrowings from reserve banks increased $34,000,000, loans on securities $6,453,000,000, a decrease of $26,000,000. All other loans totaled $7,885,000,000, an increase of $22,000,000.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—The bond market fluctuated irregularly again today. Losses among railroad obligations were more narrow than yesterday, and the downward trend was irregular. Five 5s of 1975, United States Treasury and Liberty loans were dull with a tendency to decline. Industrial issues were generally lower on dull trading.

Dollar Crude Oil Restored By Oklahoma Refiners

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

DOLLAR OIL IS AGAIN a reality in Oklahoma. After a week of hesitancy refiners yesterday gave substantial recognition to the shortage of crude with advances in price in nearly all the major oil producing areas between the Mississippi River and the Rocky Mountains.

Prices of $1 a barrel for crude were posted by leading refiners in Oklahoma and Kansas, marking a complete victory for Gov. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray, of Oklahoma, pioneer in the movement to use complete suspension of production to restore prices to a profitable level.

Up to the last night there was no intimation of the time for discontinuing martial law in oil fields in Oklahoma and East Texas. It is probable that action will be taken by Gov. Murray within a short time. East Texas may remain shut down for several weeks more until the Texas Railroad Commission has time to take over control of production under the provisions of that state's new law.

Output Million Barrels Less

IN THE MEANTIME the reduction of 1,000,000 barrels a day in the country's total output, resulting from the suspension of operation in the two fields, will force the industry to make large inroads into crude and refined products in storage. When production is resumed at prorated levels the oil trade will find itself in a healthier condition with a far more satisfactory price scale than it has enjoyed for many months.

The prices established under the pressure of current abnormal conditions in the oil trade may not be fully maintained after Texas and Oklahoma resume operations, but a large share of the ground recently gained may be held and the threat to prices from the uncontrolled output of East Texas will have been eliminated.

For the first time the oil industry will be under complete production supervision. This is the most constructive development in the business during the years in which stability has been disturbed by excessive stocks.

Higher Gasoline Prices Likely

THE ULTIMATE CONSUMER may have to bear a large share of the burden of putting the oil industry back on its feet. Higher gasoline prices are likely to result from the boost given to crude quotations. The change is not likely to be particularly large, however, since falling crude prices were not fully reflected in the retail gasoline market.

One effect of the stronger oil market and the reduction in stocks of crude and refined products may be a curtailment in the sale of third grade gasoline at retail. This first appeared as what the trade considered a "bootleg" product. Later competition forced the leading companies to add a corresponding grade to their lines of retail gasoline.

May Help Earnings

IT IS TOO SOON to make a prediction of the exact effect of full production control on the earnings of oil companies. Statements for the first half of the year were discouraging in most cases. It is quite probable that the control of Texas production and the establishment of higher prices will have a favorable effect on future profits. Just how rapidly changed conditions in the oil trade will be reflected in earnings is difficult to say. It must be remembered also that there is always the danger of the discovery of a new field which would again upset the balance between supply and demand. The industry has not solved all its problems but it has cleared the way for the restoration of satisfactory conditions.

VITAL FACTS RELATING TO THE MANAGEMENT OF TRUST INVESTMENTS

The Duty of a Trustee

THE duty of a Trustee with respect to the investment of trust funds is at all times to give first consideration to safety of principal.

The conservative Trustee never attempts to secure an excessive rate of income, nor to select securities other than those of the highest grade.

Accordingly, in creating a trust fund, it should not be expected that the Trustee will provide means of recovering losses which have been previously sustained through unwise investments, nor suggest an investment program that promises unusual enhancement of values.

The Trust Department of the Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh is directed by men of long experience in trust matters, specially trained for their specific duties. In selecting this Company as Trustee you may secure responsible management when most needed with the assurance that you will be prudently, thoughtfully and well served.

We invite you to call upon our trust officers at your convenience, or to write for our booklet "Solving the Problems that Confront Your Estate."

MARKET GAINS LOST IN LATE TRADING

Meeting by U. S. Steel Grips Financial Leaders; General List Declines

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—The financial markets remained logy today, and a few experimental bullish efforts in stocks made early in the session were soon abandoned.

Wall street's attention was focused on the developments in England, which on the whole were regarded as distinctly reassuring and on a directors' meeting of the United States Steel Corporation late in the day, although there was no indication from the Steel offices that there would be anything to announce after the meeting.

Several issues were pushed up a point or so in the share market during the morning, but these advances were largely canceled as the tobacco issues, American Can and Radio met considerable selling. In the tobaccos, the American Tobacco and Liggett and Myers common and class A shares lost 2 or 3 points. Morning advances of a point or so in Union Pacific Case and American Telephone were converted into losses of like extent. After a further drop in McKeesport Tinplate of about 5 points, American Can fell back 2 points. Eastman and Allied Chemical sold off about as much. United States Steel pushed up a point, then lost its rise. Radio moved in a narrow range, but was traded in considerable volume.

There has been considerable gossip in Wall street over the possibility of an announcement of a wage reduction resulting from the United States Steel meeting, but authoritative information has been completely lacking.

GRAIN PRICES SLUGGISH

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Wheat showed but little change at the start of trade today, but all deliveries of corn sold at new low levels for the season. Aggressive buying was lacking in wheat, but fair support came into the market for the September delivery at yesterday's bottom figures. Scattered liquidation sent corn downward. Short covering and commission house buying brought about a moderate rally from the extreme low. Wheat opened unchanged to ¾ cent off and held steady. Corn started unchanged to ¼ cent off and dropped more before recovering.

Liverpool wheat prices were lower, following the action of North American markets yesterday and because of pressure of low-grade Danubian wheat.

Wheat fluctuated narrowly above initial figures. Corn also reacted and held fractionally above the opening. Oats were steady. Provisions sagged slightly with hogs and then steadied.

3 OIL MERGER AGREEMENTS NEAR

Prospects of Petroleum Industry Brightened; Crude Prices Stiffen

Negotiation for three separate oil mergers drew near to completion today as prices stiffened and the prospects for the petroleum industry brightened. The three combinations will be Standard Oil of New Jersey with Standard Oil of California, Standard Oil of Ohio with Solar Refining and Sinclair Refining with Prairie.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Officials of Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation, Prairie Oil and Gas and Prairie Pipe Line Company have agreed upon terms for merger of those companies to be submitted to directors of the several companies. The terms are: One share of the new holding company stock for each share of Sinclair common. One share for each share of Prairie Oil and Gas and 14 shares for each 10 shares of Prairie Pipe Line stock.

The name of the new company will be Consolidated Petroleum Corporation.

TAHOE CITY, Cal., Aug. 25.—A preliminary basis for effecting the gigantic merger of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and the Standard Oil Company of California was reported reached yesterday at a conference here of company officials.

However neither W. T. Teagle, president of Standard Oil of New Jersey, nor Kenneth Kingsbury, head of Standard Oil of California, would comment.

Teagle according to reports is slated to be chairman of the board of directors of the merged company, with Kingsbury as president. Both have been associated with the Standard Oil Company for more than a quarter of a century. Company officials said they believed the conference would continue throughout the week.

No announcement of the proposed merger will be made to the stockholders or the public until the matter has been whipped into final shape, it was learned.

Although officials of both companies declined to comment on the terms of exchange, it was rumored in financial circles that the exchange would be made on a share-for-share basis and that a new company would probably be formed.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 25.—(INS.)—Although tentative pending ratification by stockholders of both companies, a merger agreement between the Solar Refining Company of Lima, O., and Standard Oil Company of Ohio, original parent of the Lima concern, was announced today by A. A. Stambaugh, general sales manager of Sohio.

Stockholders of the Lima Company will vote on the merger proposal October 1, in Lima. Sohio stockholders will vote at a special meeting October 10, in Cleveland. Both groups are expected to sanction the plan, Stambaugh said.

MOTOR PARTS FIRM SOLD

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—The Gabriel Company, of Cleveland, manufacturers of automotive equipment, announced that Class B shares of the company have been acquired by a group of New York, Baltimore and Montreal business men.

Negotiations for the purchase of the holdings of Otis & Co., investment bankers, and others in these shares have been in progress for several months. The present Gabriel management is retained.

The company's new board of directors is composed of Stanley Johnston, Dr. Alfred R. L. Dohme, Baltimore; B. Lytton Johnston, New York; John J. Batterman, Boston, and W. H. Johnston, New York.

The new officers are W. H. Johnston, president; George H. Ralls and J. H. Shoemaker, both of Cleveland, and John J. Batterman, vice presidents; B. Lytton Johnston, secretary and treasurer, and David Benjamin, Cleveland, assistant secretary and assistant treasurer.

Safeway Denies Deal for Stores

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—President Skaggs of Safeway Stores states the company has no mergers in prospect other than that calling for absorption of MacMarr Stores. He denies reports that Safeway is negotiating with Kroger-Daniel Reeves or H. C. Bohack.

U. S. Helium Plant To Make Fuel For Akron

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—The government's helium plant at Amarillo, Tex., will supply the fuel for the Navy's new dirigible "Akron." The Bureau of Mines reported that already 6,000,000 cubic feet of helium has been shipped for this purpose.

Although the Texas plant has been in operation only two years, it has produced more than 22,000,000 cubic feet of helium at an average net cost of $11.47 per thousand cubic feet. An indication of present improved plant performance, brought about through experience in plant operation and improvements in process and equipment is given in production figures for June, 1931, when the net cost of $8.95 per cubic feet was attained.

Wall Street Expects New Haven to Cut Dividend

Considerable interest is being shown in the dividend meeting of New Haven Railroad directors which is likely to be held Wednesday. Wall street is looking for a reduction from the current $6 a share annual rate. This is indicated by the low price of the stock which would give a yield of considerably more than 10 per cent if the present rate were to be maintained. Although New Haven has been doing better than many other railroads the earnings have not been covering the distribution. One factor is that the road is getting less income on its Boston and Maine holdings. A reduction in New Haven's distribution and the cut already made by Boston and Maine will affect the income of Pennsylvania to a moderate extent because of its interest in the two railroads.

Pennsylvania Railroad shares are selling for less than the $41.33 a share equivalent of the corporate surplus on December 31, 1930. Although the summer dividend is not payable until August 31, and action on the fall dividend payable the end of November is not due until the latter part of October, the failure of business to improve so far has raised some question as to whether a further revision downward in the dividend rate may be necessary in the fall, this despite the fact that the August dividend was reduced to 75 cents from $1.

An expanation for the selling which came into tobacco stocks recently was seen in the publication of the output of cigarets for July, which showed a substantial decrease. A rumor also has been circulated recently that the August figures will show a decrease as compared with the July total, but interests in the industry contend it is too early for such a prediction. Those who have been active in the tobacco stocks point out that the total last month compared with the best month in the history of the industry. The July, 1930 total, in addition to establishing a record, recorded a gain of 10.5 per cent over the 1929 month.

Evidence of more interest in Lambert has been seen recently, and there are statements in some quarters that a new group has started operating in the stock, although the identity has not been disclosed. Sales of the company in July showed a slight increase over the same month last year and this is likely to be emphasized if there is to be an active pool operation in the issue in the near future.

Some interests have been inclined to place a bullish interpretation on the fact that the latest report on brokers' loans disclosed an increase of $14,000,000 after steady decreases since July 1. There are others, however, who point out that this gain, even representing some increase in outside participation in stocks, was more than offset as an influence by the drop of $25,000,000 in loans on securities to non-broker customers of banks, bringing that total to a new low of $1,672,000,000. It is maintained that this latter item more nearly indicates the investment attitude of the public toward securities.

Federal Farm Board's willingness to negotiate with China for the sale of 15,000,000 bushels of wheat from its surplus stocks to aid the Yangtse Valley flood sufferers has met the approbation of the grain trade. Not only would such action serve to dissipate a portion of the heaviest cloud that is overhanging the grain market today, but it would also help international amity between the Chinese Nationalist government and the United States, which might further develop Oriental trade. Moreover, immediate sale of this wheat will rid the board of storage and insurance charges running up to $225,000 monthly on this wheat.

I. C. C. Authorizes Soo Line Notes

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—The Interstate Commerce Commission has authorized Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie Railway to issue $10,000,000 one-year 5 per cent notes, to be sold at not less than 98½ and accrued interest, and proceeds used for retiring outstanding collateral trust bonds and to reimburse the treasury for expenditures made for that purpose.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—The curb market was virtually at a standstill today. Trading dwindled in extraordinarily small proportions, and there were few price changes exceeding minor fractions in the principal issues.

Call money remained pegged at 2 per cent, and was in slight demand.

Steel Prices.

FIRMS MAY CUT STEEL WAGES

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 25.—Independent steel companies are bending their energies toward establishing and maintaining prices on a firmer basis, especially in flat-rolled steels. Makers realize that for the past year the market has been too low, and leaders in the industry declare it cannot go on dissipating its natural resources.

Consequently, they feel that a period of readjustment is at hand, involving wage adjustments as well. To date the independents have taken no action toward cutting wages, awaiting action of the United States Steel Corporation, whose directors are scheduled to meet this week.

If wages are cut, action will be taken at the same time to stabilize prices, so that the industry will not lose in lower prices the benefits to earnings in reduced disbursements for wages.

MASQUERADE -:- By Faith Baldwin

Mrs. Carstairs Gives Fanchon A Liberal Allowance

CHAPTER XI.

When everything had been cleared away—Mrs. Carstairs talking of Southampton, of plans in the meantime, lightly and with calculated casualness, the doctor was announced. He came on his way to the theater, in evening clothes. A tall, good-looking man, Wynne, by name. With Mrs. Carstairs watching, he went all over Fanchon, looked at her arm, re-bandaged it and pronounced her sound in limb, if bruised and wrenched. Only rest would cure that and nature, he said, and added that she had had a severe nervous shock. He left her a nerve tonic and some sleeping powders.

"But I won't need them!" Fanchon protested.

"They will relax you," he told her, smiling, "you are terribly keyed up."

Mrs. Carstairs went out to the hall with him as he left.

"She's all right," he told her in answer to her anxious question. "I didn't of course ask for details. She's pretty badly shocked by the whole dreadful business. And very nervous. Give her lots of sunlight, rest, fresh air and keep off any subject that seems to affect her disagreeably or emotionally. See that she gets plenty of recreation too, and laughter. She'll need that to help her forget."

After a moment he asked,

"And Collin?"

Mrs. Carstairs made a gesture of despair.

"Terribly stubborn," she admitted.

"Does she know?"

TO SEND CHECK

"Only what I wrote her. Which wasn't much. There are some things that you cannot possibly write," Mrs. Carstairs admitted.

She added as the doctor stood there silent, frowning a little.

"I told her I would talk to her about it tonight."

"Not tonight," the physician advised, quickly, "wait until she is more rested. She is struggling for self-control. I could see that. But she is really tremendously upset."

He left and Mrs. Carstairs returned to Fanchon.

"I must," said Fanchon, "send back the suitcase to the Lawsons. They are the people who took me in after—after the accident. I borrowed the case from them and a hat and coat as well. I could have bought things in the town, but there wasn't time and I couldn't get out to get them," she explained.

"Emma will attend to it for you," Mrs. Carstairs suggested, "you are not to worry. And you can send them a check for their kindness to you."

"A check?" asked Fanchon, astonished.

Mrs. Carstairs rose and went over to a rosewood desk. From the drawer she took a new bank book and gave it to Fanchon. Fanchon opened it. It assured her that in a certain New York bank a certain sum had been deposited to the order of Evelyn Howard.

"We can arrange for your signature later," Mrs. Carstairs told her, "It is your allowance."

LIBERAL ALLOWANCE

Fanchon stared at the check-book. Money! Under false pretenses! But she had money of her own. No, it was not hers. It was Tony's. She could not spend more of it, she must one day manage somehow to return it to him. Yet how could she, without ravelling the web of deceit which she had set herself to weave? Yet this money which was offered her was not her own, either.

Nothing could make it so.

"It is your allowance," said Mrs. Carstairs again, "and will be paid quarterly."

"But I can't—it is too much . . . I—" she stammered.

Ten thousand dollars a year!

Mrs. Carstairs said gently:

"You will need pocket money. And clothes. I am going to give myself the great pleasure of outfitting you, first, from head to feet. And after that, you may use your allowance as you see fit."

She added:

"I have more money than I can possibly spend. Collin has his own income. His father's fortune was divided between us and has more than doubled. Collin has a seat on the Stock Exchange as well and is doing famously. I have always felt that . . . that I owed you something. You see, while the estate left by your grandparents was not large, it all came to me. Half of it should have been your mother's. I shall never forgive myself," she said low, "and May never forgave me."

Fanchon said low, desperately anxious to help by some word of comfort:

TAKES SLEEPING POWDER

"I am sure she did."

Mrs. Carstairs eyes lighted.

"Do you believe that? You don't know how happy you have made me! But I will not let you talk any more." She moved to the bedside table and took up the thermos jug which stood there, poured out a glass of water, shook one of the sleeping powders into it and gave it into Fanchon's hand. "Drink that. Doctor's orders!" she said smiling, "and if, in two hours you are not sleeping you may have another. If you wish anything in the night, ring for Emma. She is sleeping next door to be near you. But I and not she, will tuck you in now."

She drew a sheet and a light blanket over Fanchon, and took the negligee from her shoulders. "Lie down," she said, and stooping, kissed her. Fanchon held her tightly for a minute. In another moment the lights were out and the cool breeze swept gently into the room and stirred the curtains.

IMPOSSIBLE TO SLEEP

"I only want your happiness," said Mrs. Carstairs, oddly from the door. "I have made it my business, Evelyn."

Two hours later Fanchon snapped on the bedside light and took the second sleeping powder. Her brain was like a merry-go-round. She lay and tossed in a sort of fever of despair. No going back now. And she didn't want to go back. Her whole heart had gone out to Jennie Carstairs. If she had been poor and obscure and miserable and still herself, Fanchon's heart would have gone out to her. Fanchon was perfectly unimpressed by all the ease and luxury. It fitted into the picture and that was all. It was the woman herself who had won her.

And she was an imposter.

But Evelyn was dead. She could not hurt the dead. To confess now would be, she realized dully, to hurt the living tremendously.

Synopsis

Leaving Hawaii shortly after her father's death, young and beautiful Fanchon Meredith goes to San Francisco, where she meets and loves a handsome man named Tony; Fanchon is shocked to learn that Tony is a racketeer, implicated in a recent murder. She, too, is now wanted. Fanchon escapes in an airplane under the name of "Smith." Evelyn Howard, whom she had met on the boat coming from Hawaii, is aboard. Evelyn is en route to New York to live with her aunt, the wealthy Mrs. Carstairs, whom she has never met. After Fanchon confides in Evelyn, the latter treats her coolly. The plane crashes and Fanchon is the only survivor. She decides to escape Tony and the past and start life anew by masquerading as Evelyn. She requests a doctor to wire Mrs. Carstairs that "Evelyn" is safe. A wire comes from Mrs. Carstairs saying that Collin cannot meet Fanchon. Fanchon learns Collin is Mrs. Carstairs' only son. Mrs. Carstairs meets Fanchon at train, exclaiming, "But you're not Evelyn, are you? . . . You can't be." The girl's terror of being discovered passes when Mrs. Carstairs explains she couldn't believe anyone so beautiful could belong in the family. Her kindness and affection prick Fanchon's conscience.

DAILY SHORT STORY

The Chair

Demented Woman Feared By Citizens of Town

"River street," said Mayor Phelps, "an excellent place. It will allow the roadway to come to Main street almost on a level."

"It all depends," he said, rather enigmatically.

"On what, John?" asked the mayor.

Garson smiled and hesitated. Finally he said, "It depends on Marm Hatton."

The young mayor glanced at Garson as if to make sure that he was merely joking. He had studied law in Garson's office and knew the man thoroughly. He saw that Garson was quite serious.

"Mrs. Hatton doesn't own more than 50x50 down there and at top price we could get it for $800, her old shack and all," Mayor Phelps protested.

"If she is willing to sell, you mean."

"But look here, John, there is no 'if' about it, we have the right to take her property and pay her whatever the assessors decide is a fair valuation."

"True enough—but there's another 'if' in this woodpile of ours—the bridge will not be built unless we get the vote for it."

"Who'd vote against it, John? Everyone in Oldtown has been wanting this bridge for years. Don't you think this is the best place to bring it across?"

"By all means, but still there is Marm Hatton to consider."

CONTROLS VOTES

"Really, gentlemen," exclaimed Marston, the City Engineer, "I cannot see where this Hatton woman can stop our plans."

"How many votes come from the factory district across the tracks and along the river?" Garson asked.

"More than half, but you know how easy they are to handle, get a good leader amongst them and whatever he suggests they will follow like sheep," Mayor Phelps declared.

"The leader," Attorney Garson said, "is Marm Hatton."

"I mean some bright chap down there who will be a political leader—"

"Marm Hatton's word influences politicis down there."

"As if," thundered Blake of Blake & Blake, the bridge builders, "some old crone could prevent any thriving city like yours from building a half million dollar bridge!"

Attorney Garson shrugged.

Mayor Phelps began to look disturbed. He knew about what was on Garson's mind.

"Who is this woman and what is her pull?" Blake asked.

"She has always lived down there, or at least for 40 years, since she was married," Garson explained. "Her husband was killed in the paper mill. She runs a sort of lunchroom just outside the mill yard—"

HUSBAND KILLED

"I see," Blake interrupted, although he didn't "see" at all, "the woman has a sort of small popularity because of her lunchroom."

"Not exactly—and I wouldn't consider that it was popularity, but the people down there believe in her and many fear her, while practically all of them respect her. It dates from the time—well, I'll go back farther than that. Joe Hatton, her husband, was killed more than 20 years ago, before the days of employer's liability and that sort of thing. There was no question but what the derrick chains should have been inspected. One of them broke and a ton of pulp wood fell on Hatton—"

"And killed him?" asked Blake.

John Garson glanced at him reproachfully. "At least," he answered, "they buried Joe. Well, the owners of the mill at that time, which was before they got into the combine, claimed that the accident was an act of God. Ben Wilson was superintendent at that time. He felt that Mrs. Hatton should have some compensation.

"First of all, he secretly aided her, or thought that it was secret, but her friends told her where the funds came from. The company thought that paying the burial expenses was quite a generous gesture. Wilson insisted that either a lump sum or a small pension be given the woman.

"After more than a year of working on this, the company allowed Mrs. Hatton $10 a week until such time as she married again.

"She is getting it today, for the new owners had to take on this obligation and Mrs. Hatton never could see any sense in marrying again so long as she had her 10 a week and her little lunch room. She declared that it would be a mighty difficult thing to find any man worth that much."

"Wasn't it Wilson who was killed in a fight?" Mayor Phelps asked.

"What has the decision of a jury to do with facts or justice?" Garson demanded, hotly. "This workman, 'Ship' Gorman, killed Wilson with an iron bar because Wilson had found it necessary to dock him a score of times for getting in about noon every Monday. Gorman's week-end sprees never enabled him to get about much earlier than that. Of course, Mrs. Hatton knew all that Wilson had done for her and he was her idea of a very wonderful man. When Gorman killed him she went about saying that Gorman would get the chair. Well, Gorman's brother intimidated Chet Smith, the one witness to the attack, so that at the trial Chet retracted all he had told to the authorities and said that he did not see any actual fighting, but heard Wilson quarreling with Gorman."

"Quite a sensation in the court room. When the jury came in after an all-night session and rendered a verdict of 'Not guilty' on the grounds that Gorman killed Wilson in self-defense, Mrs. Hatton screamed. They tried to quiet her, but she stood up and shook her finger at Gorman.

BELIEVED DEMENTED

"'You murderer!' she cried, 'listen to me; you'll die in the chair in spite of this fool jury's verdict!' Well, they arrested Mrs. Hatton, but we got her out of it by claiming that she was temporarily out of her head, so she wasn't fined for contempt, and, to tell the truth, a great many of us were of the opinion that she was right about the mental status of the jury. I was a junior partner in the law firm that defended Gorman, and we only expected, at best, a homicide verdict and 10 to 15 years.

"Mrs. Hatton raved around for months before she quieted down, and the burden of her raving was that 'Ship' Gorman was a murderer, and that he would die in the chair. Gorman was ugly about it at first, and then he took the view of the rest of us, that Mary Hatton was demented on one subject, the subject of Wilson's death."

"But, what the devil," Blake asked, as Garson paused a moment, "has all of this to do with this demented women throwing a monkey wrench into the works—in other words, how could she swing a vote around against this bridge that has been this city's greatest need for 20 years?"

"'Ship' Gorman became quite a celebrity, and seemed to bask in this sort of notoriety," Garson went on. "Of course he was not given back his job in the paper mill. He went to work for his brother, who had established a service station and garage. He seemed to think that he was a great celebrity, and if he wasn't recognized as the man freed of a murder charge he would often introduce himself. He used to sit outside of this service station and smoke his pipe and talk with whoever would talk with him. He put in more hours this way than at the bench inside. Many said that his own brother was afraid of him."

"This seems to be a rather long and pointless story, sir," Blake said, impatiently.

"We aim to live life easily and pointlessly around here," the lawyer answered with a smile. The others knew that John Garson never talked at length without something worth saying.

"There was the Labor Day parade. 'Ship' Gorman drove the big car that carried some crippled members of the A. F. of L. When the parade was forming this car was waiting in front of Mrs. Hatton's little cottage. She came out and eyed Gorman darkly.

"'You,' she shrilled, 'you a settin' up there in your plug hat, you murderer—don't think drivin' a car and wearin' a plug hat will save you—you're going to die in the chair!' Gorman tried to pretend not to hear her, but he was glad when the parade was formed and he could drive away because Mrs. Hatton continued to call him 'murderer' and to declare that he would certainly die in the chair.

"It wasn't two weeks after this that Gorman was sitting outside his brother's service station in the old swivel chair he had occupied so much, when the sky became suddenly overcast. It was one of those quick and freakish storms. A bolt of lightning came almost as though from the blue. It shattered the end of the service station and started a blaze. Men rushing to put out the flames found 'Ship' Gorman sitting in the chair, but the chair and his clothes were smoking and he was dead.

PLAN WORKS

"That, gentlemen, is why everyone down on River street and in the mill district fears Marm Hatton and yet believes in her. She has said that Gorman would die in the chair and he did. If she were to object to getting out of her little home she could declare that the bridge would fall down and kill thousands and they would believe her—think what that would mean when the vote was taken—all those mill hands and people down River street way, added to the group of square-heads we have here who will vote against the project on the grounds of economy!"

"I will tell Marm Hatton, and you gentlemen will back me up, that it was the late Ben Wilson who first wanted this bridge put across there. She worships the memory of Wilson. She will gladly get out and work for us."

He was quite right about it.

I SEE HERE WHERE THE POLICE GRABBED ANOTHER RED-HOT YESTERDAY WHEN HE RAN HIS CAR INTO A TELEGRAPH POLE. GOOD WORK! THEY OUGHT TO TAKE ALL THOSE TOUGH BABIES OUT OF CIRCULATION. THROW 'EM IN THE HOOSEGOW FROM NOW ON.

MOST OF THOSE RED-HOTS HAVE TOO MUCH AIM, AND I'M IN FAVOR OF SOME WAY TO TAKE THE NOTION OUT OF THEIR MINDS THAT LIFE IS JUST A SHOOTING GALLERY
OH, OF COURSE, I TOO AM AGAINST TOO MUCH ROUGH STUFF. IT'S VERY BAD. DOESN'T PAY.
MY WORD BUFFLY, YOU TALK AS IF RED-HOTS WERE JUST A LOT OF BOYS WHO RAN AROUND RINGING DOORBELLS. THEIR IDEA OF GOOD CLEAN SPORT IS TO PUT ON THE GLOVES WITH SOME ONE-ARMED MAN WHO HAS HIVES.
DON'T UNDERSTAND ME TO SAY THAT I ADMIRE THOSE GORILLAS. THEY'RE TERRIBLY CRUDE, TOO—
IF I WAS THE CHIEF OF POLICE I'D THROW ALL OF THOSE BABIES INTO JAIL FOR 30 DAYS ONCE EVERY MONTH. THEY'D BE IN THE HOOSEGOW SO MUCH THAT THEY'D BE HOMESICK AWAY FROM IT.
WELL AS I SAY I WON'T DEFEND THEM, NOT FOR A SECOND. BUT THEY'VE GOT THEIR GRIEF RIGHT NOW. DAMP DRAFTY CELLS, TOUGH POLICEMEN, AND COMPETITION. THAT LITTLE THING IS REAL TOUGH RIGHT NOW.

The Power to Lead

Efficient Leadership Essential for Business During Time of Depression.

In connection with the breakdown of the economic machine during the depression, there has been a disposition to blame the men in position of leadership.

Experience has demonstrated that some executives in high posts lacked the capacity to fight conditions.

Other men have in recent months risen up on the backs of adversity. Since July 1, despite the low state of corporate earnings in general, more than 160 bucking companies, with alert leadership, ACTUALLY REPORTED AN IMPROVEMENT IN EARNINGS.

At a time when faith in business leadership in the United States is at a low ebb, Merle Thorpe, editor, Nation's Business, in his new volume entitled "Organized Business Leadership," has sought to stress the latent power and promise of the human brain.

In characterizing the new style, effective leader, Mr. Thorpe says:

"Leaders are no longer bosses. That term is out of date in almost all successful organizations. The leader is a help, is one of the team. Captain, yes, but working with and alongside the other members of his organization.

"We might sum up the qualities of leadership in four words: the ability to visualize, to organize, to deputize, to supervise."

Mr. Thorpe added that in every great leader is "an ability to see the completed thing whole before a start is made."

Leadership consists of an ability to look ahead.

The true leader is able to see through the fallacious assumption that conditions will remain as they now are.

With the growing complexity of business organization, there is a demand for a more intellectual type of business leadership.

America's resources in able men are underestimated in the present bear market, but nevertheless constitute a bulwark around which the hopes for economic recuperation legitimately rest.

Preparations to Steal

Fraudulent Assessments in Machine-Controlled Wards Can Have No Other Meaning.

Almost daily now fraudulent assessments in the machine-controlled wards are coming to light. The number of supposed residents of these wards whose names appear on the assessment lists is wholly out of proportion to the census figures. Registered letters sent to the names and addresses given have come back by the hundreds with the information from the postoffice that the addresses could not be found.

These fraudulent assessments can mean but one thing—that the machine is making preparations to steal the election.

Election thieves have often escaped prosecution in Allegheny County, and even when convicted have generally been paroled or let off with light fines.

The most effective way to stop election cheating would be to send the crooks to prison, and the best way to accomplish that is to elect judges and a district attorney who are not controlled by the machine.

Murderous Maniacs

Three Recent Cases of "Running Amuck" Are a Warning to Watch Persons With Mental Disease.

A former inmate of an insane asylum "ran amuck" in the mining village of Renton yesterday and struck three persons with an ax before he was subdued.

This is the third case in this vicinity during the last week or so in which a man once given treatment for mental disease in an asylum but discharged as cured has gone on a murderous rampage.

They are also a warning to the relatives of discharged mental patients to keep careful watch over them and have them promptly recommitted at the first sign of a return of their dangerous illness.

Police and Politics

If the Crime Wave Is to Be Coped With, the Spoils System of Appointments Must Go.

Fifteen highway robberies and burglaries were reported in Pittsburgh over the week-end, and a number of others in other parts of Allegheny County.

While we have fortunately been spared such massacres as have marked the progress of the crime wave in New York, the situation here is relatively as bad as that in the Eastern metropolis.

New York citizens have declared war to the death on the criminals. What are Pittsburghers going to do about it? What CAN they do?

They can take the police and county detectives out of politics by electing to office men committed to the abolition of the spoils system, with its demoralizing effect on the officers on whom we must rely in the battle against crime.

With policemen chosen for their posts because of political considerations, and with county detectives called upon to do political work, first-rate police and detective work cannot possibly be secured, and it is no wonder that bandits and burglars operate almost without hindrance.

Curb the Sale of the Gun

By Nelson Harding

The PISTOL is entirely too prominent in the news. Day after day it thrusts itself on the front page, writing its black record from a smoking muzzle; writing with gunpowder and lead.

The deadly weapon is within reach of every crook and crackpot that has the price to buy one; and they have the price. Present laws restricting the sale of firearms are literally shot full of holes. Federal laws can and must be enacted to DISARM the potential killer.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Midnight movies attract a crowd the average New Yorker rarely sees. With times as they are even the glorified cinema Taj Mahals are offering programs starting at midnight. The oldest all night movie house is in the New York Theater—the home of the first Follies.

Theaters after midnight are only about half filled. Thus choice seats are always available. Patrons range from the night worker taking his hour off to perhaps an ermined lady and top-hatted gent winding up a night among the flaming tungstens.

Many bring sandwiches, peanuts and bags of fruit to munch while watching a deep-dyed villian pursue a timorous heroine. And invariably there is an assortment of talkative drunks. They add to the hilarity by talking back to the characters and making side remarks.

Out of this nocturnal nitwittery has come many of the sly cracks of the variety halls. Now and then chorus girls drift in to rest after an arduous performance and also actors enjoying a busman-like holiday. It is a time when Rialto performers shed airs and fraternize.

Chief among the annoyers are those who have seen the film once and remain for the second show. They tip off what is going to happen as the film unreels and in the hands of experts the comicalities are far more diverting than the usual picture.

Night shows also bring out flickering human shadows—the dope fiend dropping into a muddled nescience, the fugitive enjoying a brief respite, etc., etc. Gamblers often see the second show after their night's play. After midnight, incidentally, one may see two shows for one price also.

Nights out I try to get around to hearing Sneeze, wherever he may be. He is an ebony black, pearly toothed and bullet-headed Negro, who roams the world. As he says, he "pesters a piano" for a living. It was Sneeze who introduced the song with a thousand verses, "Room 202." He has warbled in Paris, London, New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Palm Beach, Havana and Rio. One of his unprintable madrigals gave the Prince of Wales his biggest laugh in America.

Another entertainer little known is Sebastian Estrada, 370-pound proprietor of the Spanish cafe, El Chorrito, in Cherry street. All Spanish cafes, by the way, have removed pictures and statuary of King Alfonso.

Along that strip of splendorous Vanderbilt avenue running from Forty-second to Forty-seventh street I have frequently seen a dignified gentleman with a middle part in his snow white beard and whose bushy eyebrows are the mournful, glossy black of a raven. He is a type, swinging a gold headed cane, that makes me want to yoo-hoo for Ripley. For stretched across his vest is a watch-chain of varnished wooden spools.

I asked one of those high-booted, spurred and straw plug-hatted grooms who guard the Vanderbilt avenue entrances of the Biltmore about him. In pure Twickenham Cockney he replied: "A rare one, that. He kymes by dyly and a-Christmas gyves each of us 2 quids. A bit of a queer, I should sy, sir!"

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

You may wonder at times why some person whom you have wronged will not accept your apology.

You feel repentant and really wish to be forgiven.

There is no reason why you should think that those who love you most should forgive even your most violent demonstrations of anger.

When you let yourself get beyond control you have lost something which you can never fully regain.

The same degree of respect and love may seem to exist, but deep down in the heart something beautiful has been injured, never to wholly heal.

So it is a serious matter to permit angry emotion to carry you to the point where you think only of inflicting serious injury, mental or physical, upon the victim of your misunderstanding or the one against whom you have a grievance.

If Liberty Is Not Personal, Then of What Value Is It?

By BRAND WHITLOCK

(Copyright by Brand Whitlock, 1931.)

ONE fine morning the nation awoke to find the Eighteenth Amendment in the Constitution of the United States.

If it was not precisely a coup d'etat, it had some of the disconcerting features of one.

Certainly NO SUCH BLOW HAD EVER BEEN DEALT TO INDIVIDUAL LIBERTY, and there was something ironical in clapping a nation of freemen, just emerged victorious from a war for democracy and liberty, under the tutelage of monitors who were to regulate their personal habits.

The citizens of the republic had always lived in the comfortable illusion that they had inherited all the rights of man and that the Constitution was the palladium of their liberties.

At any rate, whatever their feeling about liberty, or whatever conception they may have had of it, the founding fathers realized that they would never be able to get their Constitution accepted by the people unless they put the bill of rights in it and gave it something of the political complexion of the Declaration of Independence. COLUMBIA WOULD NOT BE COLUMBIA WITHOUT THE CAP OF LIBERTY.

BUT since we have gone in for absolute prohibition on a national scale, the supporters of the policy, while willing to subscribe to the doctrine of civil and religious liberty, always pooh-pooh the idea of personal liberty as something unreasonable and preposterous.

BUT WHAT OTHER KIND OF LIBERTY IS THERE? IF LIBERTY IS NOT PERSONAL, OF WHAT VALUE IS IT? WHAT SECURITY, WHAT HAPPINESS, WHAT LIFE CAN IT BESTOW?

Government has gained most of its ground by means of the unwritten constitution, as Prof. William Bennett Munro calls it in his enlightening little book—The Makers of the Unwritten Constitution.

This process which, by a gradual erosion of the powers of the several states, has brought about a steady accretion of power in the federal government, is imperceptible, of course, to the ordinary citizen. These changes may enlarge, or they may restrict, the liberties of the people, they may make for democracy or for autocracy.

IT DEPENDS UPON THE PEOPLE WHETHER THEY ARE VIGILANT AND ON THE ALERT, OR INDIFFERENT AND ASLEEP. But the natural tendency is that which Jefferson predicted: "Liberty gives way before government."

He once had the right, as an American, to live his own life as he choose, so long as he didn't interfere with the rights of other people—their rights, not merely their prejudices.

He has always SUPPOSED that the Constitution was devised to conserve this individual and personal right.

He has assumed that it was not intended to confer tyrannical powers upon the government.

He thought that its various checks and balances, and the inhibitions of the bill of rights were intended to prevent the Executive and Congress from interfering in his personal rights; that is, he thought that they were INTENDED TO PROTECT HIM FROM PRECISELY SUCH INVASIONS OF HIS LIBERTIES AS PROHIBITION.

BUT whence came this truculent and acrid morality, this almost insane concentration on drinking as the one unpardonable sin? It is customary, I know, to ascribe it to the Puritans. But the Puritans, with all their austere morality, made no objection to the use of spirits; they drank themselves and were regularly, many of them, in the rum trade with the West Indies.

In the whole course of their history, whether in England or New England, THEY NEVER CONDEMNED THE REASONABLE USE OF SPIRITS AS A SIN.

No more did Calvinism, or the followers of John Knox in Scotland.

The Anglican Church never taught any such nonsense, and in our southern states the drinking customs of the English aristocracy survived right down to the Civil War.

The Catholic Church never taught that the moderate use of spirits was wrong, and even undue indulgence was no more than a venial sin. In fact, NOTHING in the teaching of any of the numerous sects of Christendom, or in the Bible itself, EVER AUTHORIZED THE EXTREME AND UNCOMPROMISING ATTITUDE on this subject adopted in our own time.

Did not St. Paul himself expressly say:

And yet, in the brief space of two generations, we have seen the rise and growth of a dogma which asserts not only that any use whatever of liquor is a sin, but that alcohol is somehow a sin in itself.

NOW I had often wondered where they had found this amazing doctrine, and so one day I asked our rector, confident that he could tell me, if anyone could. And, sure enough, he knew.

"Why," he said instantly, "they are Manichaeans, unconsciously perhaps, but Manichaeans."

Unfortunately, however, I hadn't the slightest idea what Manichaeans were, so I confessed my ignorance and he kindly lent me an encyclopaedia or theology in which knowledge of this sort was set forth simply and in a maner accessible to my limited intelligence.

I learned that this doctrine of sin as inherent in matter is no new thing, but goes back to a religious system founded by Mani, or Manes, or Manichaeus—for the name is variously written—a person who gave his name to a sect that flourished from the third to the fifth century. Mani taught that Satan was co-eternal with God; there were two principles in the universe, good and evil, light and darkness, and they were in everlasting conflict.

This was no mere figure of speech with Mani. Light was actually and absolutely good, and darkness was actually and absolutely evil. Evil, therefore, was inherent in all those forms of matter that emanate from darkness, as wine, for instance, and the flesh of beasts, and when evil was in anything there was nothing to be done; there was no way to get it out; the only course to pursue was to let wine and meat, and all the other products of darkness, severely alone.

THUS THE PROHIBITIONISTS, WHETHER CONSCIOUSLY OR UNCONSCIOUSLY, ARE MANICHAEISTS. And as soon as they grow a little more powerful will no doubt decree Manichaeism to be our established religion, and prohibit a number of other things they don't like, on the simple ground that sin is inherent in them.
